Connie Lett Is Picked As Queen Of State Fair

OHIO'S FAIR QUEEN — Pretty Connie Lett copped the judges votes to be named Queen of the Ohio State Fair Sunday. The Pickaway County girl began her reign in a flurry of activity and already has a schedule of appearances to make as a representative of the state. Today the 18-year-old Connie was a featured guest on the Bob Braun television show.

Selected the queen of all queens in the state of Ohio was an 18-year-old Pickaway County girl, Constance Elaine Lett.

Connie, the reigning Miss Ohio Shropshire, was one of 43 girls who were selected to enter final competition for the title Sunday at the Ohio State Fair. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lett, Route 1, Orient.

OU Probe Convenes At Athens

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The special grand jury called to investigate insurance, banking and real estate transactions conducted by Ohio University began deliberations today.

Judge Howard Goldsberry, retired Ross County Common Pleas Court Judge, is sitting for the grand jury session by assignment from the Ohio Supreme Court.

As many as 31 witnesses are expected to give testimony before the jury concerning the university's business affairs.

Among the first witnesses called were Claude R. Sowle, university president; Paul O'Brien, OU vice president and treasurer and former secretary to the board of trustees; E. M. Poston of the state department of insurance and Joseph Gill, a Columbus attorney and secretary for the Ohio University Fund.

Gov. John J. Gilligan had directed Atty. Gen. William J. Brown to impanel the jury to determine whether any charges should be brought against anyone involved in any illegal business dealings.

His action had followed a state probe of insurance and borrowing policies of state universities. Results of the study were not made public.

That investigation had been prompted by published reports about transactions involving two members of the Ohio University Fund Inc. board of trustees and the school.

U.S. Troops Occupy Bases; Viets Attack

Fighter-Bombers Hit Antiaircraft Guns In North

SAIGON (AP) — American infantrymen have moved into two forward fire bases to free South Vietnamese troops for a major drive near the Laotian border, military spokesmen reported today.

In another development, two U.S. Air Force F4 fighter-bombers attacked inside North Vietnam in the 56th so-called protective reaction strike this year. The supersonic planes attacked antiaircraft guns 51 miles north of the demilitarized zone and destroyed two of them after they fired on an unarmed reconnaissance plane, the U.S. Command said. None of the U.S. planes was reported damaged.

U.S. B52 bombers meanwhile launched 15 more strikes in the region around Khe Sanh south of the DMZ to soften up North Vietnamese positions for the new westward push by 12,000 South Vietnamese troops.

But there was no significant contact reported with the enemy, and sources said they did not think the South Vietnamese soldiers would cross the border into Laos.

The U.S. Command said troops of the 101st Airborne Division have moved into Fire Bases Barbara and Ann to temporarily relieve South Vietnamese infantrymen for the operation north and northeast of Khe Sanh.

The command also reported that about 200 American helicopters are supporting the South Vietnamese, along with transport planes.

The objective of the new operation, code-named Lam Son 810, is to cut off North Vietnamese troop and supply movements into South Vietnam's northwestern corner, from Laos to the west and the DMZ to the north.

South Vietnamese troops along the 40-mile-long DMZ have come under heavy rocket and mortar attack for nearly a month, although the shelling have dropped off in the past few days.

Rock Festival Clash Fatal To Youth

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (AP) — One person was killed and more than a dozen injured in violence Monday night after a rock festival attended by nearly 5,000 youths, the Santa Cruz County sheriff's office reported.

More than 50 officers were summoned to the festival site in Freedom, three miles north of here, after Watsonville police issued a call for aid to the California Highway Patrol, the sheriff's office and Santa Cruz police.

Fighting continued among youths for more than an hour before officers restored control, deputies said.

The injured were taken by ambulance to Watsonville Community Hospital. The hospital said it was jammed with emergency cases and declined to estimate immediately the number injured. The sheriff's office said more than a dozen appeared to be hurt.

The dead person was not identified.

Arrests were reported but no figure was available immediately, deputies said.

There was no immediate indication of the cause of the trouble.

Ruth Stout, Veteran Area Teacher Dies

RUTH STOUT

Miss Ruth I. Stout, 105 E. Mound St., died 2:45 p.m. Monday at Berger Hospital.

Miss Stout was a teacher at Washington Twp. School for the past 24 years and before that at Circleville for 11 years.

She was currently teaching American History and a values course at the George D. McDowell Exchange School, Logan Elm School District. The values course was one designed by Miss Stout, emphasizing patriotism and good manners.

Active in promoting and teaching Americanism to the youth of Pickaway County, Miss Stout received the Valley Forge Freedom Foundation Award in 1964.

SINCE about 1950, she organized and served as guide of a tour to Washington D. C. for junior high students.

Miss Stout also received the Circleville Sertoma Club's service to Mankind Award in 1967.

She was a member of the Logan Elm Classroom Teachers Assn., the Ohio Education Assn., the Community United Methodist Church, Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class and Berger Guild.

Born in Circleville, she was the daughter of Wellington and Lillian Howe Stout.

Miss Stout is survived by one brother, Ned, of Newark.

Funeral services will be 3 p.m. Wednesday at Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Paul Wachs officiating.

Burial will be in Forest Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Lead Concentration In Air Of Cities Same For 15 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The amount of lead in the air of most major cities apparently has not changed significantly in the past 15 years despite a rapid increase in use of leaded gasoline, says the National Research Council.

A summary of the report said there is 20 times as much lead in the air in metropolitan areas as in rural areas "due largely to the combustion and dispersal of lead additives in gasoline." But it said the average American, even in the cities, "consumes more lead in food and beverages than he inhales from the air."

"The high concentration of lead in the air of central cities constitutes a potential health hazard to young children and certain groups of workers," the summary said, "but poses no identifiable current threat to the general population."

The report was one of a series on atmospheric pollutants being prepared at the request of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA has indicated it plans to ban or limit use of lead additives in gasoline and announced in January that it expects to make its proposals by the end of the year. The proposed regulations presumably would not take effect for several years.

Several gasoline manufacturers already have lead-free or low-lead gasolines on the market.

The summary said lead concentrations have been found in the blood of inner-city children "sufficient to cause biochemical changes, although insufficient to produce symptoms of lead poisoning."

But it said the higher-than-normal concentrations may have been a result of swallowing contaminated soil or street dust, from eating lead-based paint, or from breathing lead-contaminated air.

"Two to three times as much lead is added to the total environment in the form of paint pigments and metallic products as in the form of lead alkyls (from gasoline)," the summary said. "Most of this lead, which enters the ecosystem through surface weathering, dumping, and burning appears to be returned to the soil without significant emissions into the air."

The panel said it found no information that current concentrations of lead in the environment have made humans more susceptible to disease.

Some Form Of Tax Hike Seen Certain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 109th General Assembly returned to work today with three days in which to come up with a biennial tax-appropriations measure or to channel state fiscal operations through a fourth interim budget.

The third stopgap measure was passed for Sept. 1-10 with the hope of a two-year budget emerging from the Senate Ways and Means Committee during this period.

Ways and Means subcommittee chairman spent the Labor Day weekend polishing two bills — one calling for a one to three per cent personal income tax and the other an increase in the state sales tax from its present four per cent to five and one-half per cent.

Senate Majority Leader Ted Gray, R-3 Piqua, has indicated he will move both measures to the Senate Rules Committee this week, where the decision will be made on which bill will go to the floor first.

There are no sure indications that either bill will be assured passage in the upper chamber. Gov. John Gilligan is seeking a personal income tax. But many

Community Fund Goal Is $72,725

GOAL ESTABLISHED — The goal for the 1971 Community Fund campaign is six per cent higher this year, William Bills (left) points to the new goal of $72,725. Bills is chairman while George Haney (right) is assistant general chairman of the campaign.

The goal for the 1971 Pickaway County Community Fund drive is $72,725, an increase of six per cent over last year, it was announced today by William Bills, campaign chairman.

The money raised during the campaign will benefit nine county-wide participating agencies: American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Well Child Clinic, Girl Scouts, YMCA, Salvation Army, Mental Health Assn., Family Planning Clinic and the Prenatal Clinic.

Bills noted the goal is kept to a minimum by conducting one single fund raising collection for all nine agencies and through the use of volunteer help.

Key chairmen positions for this year's effort were announced and they are: George Haney, assistant general chairman; Charles Gerhardt, treasurer; Marc Davis, training chairman; James Baehr, secretary; Don Thompson, publicity chairman; Carolyn Edstrom, materials chairman; Dale Mears, industrial chairman; Vince DeFrank, assistant industrial chairman; Ken Speakman, business chairman; Robert L. Burton, county chairman; W. L. Smith, special groups chairman; J. J. Tighe, advance gifts chairman; Mrs. Clarence Wiloughby, city south chairman; Mrs. Walter Heine and Mrs. Charles Brackett, city north co-chairmen; George Bowers Jr., special areas chairman.

Tractor Wheel Falls; Boy Is Killed

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — A 9-year-old boy was killed Monday when a tractor wheel in a barn where he had been playing fell on him, crushing his skull.

Dead was Robert Stapleton of near Troy. The accident occurred on a farm near Piqua where his family was on a holiday outing.

Former Senator Hickenlooper Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of former Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper will be moved Wednesday from Washington to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he will be buried Thursday.

Hickenlooper, 75, was found dead Saturday in Shelter Island, N.Y., at the home of a friend, Henry F. Holthusen.

Death was tentatively attributed to an abnormal dilation of the aorta, the great artery that carries blood from the heart.

The body has been at a Washington funeral home for viewing Monday and today. Services will be held Thursday at First Presbyterian Church in Cedar Rapids with burial at Cedar Memorial Cemetery.

Credit Pilot With Saving 98 Lives

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The coolness and skill of a 32-year-old pilot were credited today with preventing a greater disaster when a West German charter airliner crashed after attempting an emergency landing on a superhighway.

Ninety-eight of the 121 passengers and crew members on board survived Monday's crash.

Police said at least 21 persons died and 2 others were missing.

Forty-five persons were injured and 18 remained hospitalized today—among them the pilot, Capt. Reinhold Huel, who suffered multiple fractures.

The plane, a twin-engine BAC 111 belonging to Pan International Airlines, was en route from Hamburg to Malaga, Spain, with a crew of 6 and 115 vacationers.

"The pilot was wonderful. If he hadn't reacted so coolly, we all would be dead," Renate Zarth, one of the survivors, said.

Huels brought the jet down on the Hamburg-Luebeck autobahn after it developed engine trouble just minutes out of Hamburg's Fuhlsbuettel Airport.

Congress To Reconvene, Study Nixon Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns this week after a month's vacation to find its agenda rewritten by President Nixon—his "new American revolution" replaced by his new economic policy.

When the congressional recess began Aug. 6, Nixon was pushing welfare reform and revenue sharing as the centerpiece of the program he outlined in his State of the Union message last January.

But the President, faced with a steadily worsening economy, shifted gears Aug. 15. He called for passage of a tax package, froze wages, prices and rents for 90 days and took action to stabilize the dollar.

And he asked Congress to delay the effective dates of his welfare-reform and revenue-sharing plans to hold down federal spending and allow prompt consideration of his economic program.

Nixon called for repeal of the 7-per-cent excise tax on new automobiles, a speedup in the scheduled $50 increase in individual income-tax exemptions and a 10-per-cent tax credit for business investment.

Although congressional dissent has been widespread, leaders of both parties have pledged prompt consideration of the tax package. The House Ways and Means Committee has scheduled hearings Wednesday, the day Congress returns.

Indications are that a package will be approved, possibly as early as October. But there probably will be changes in the Nixon proposals.

Democratic critics maintain they are weighted too heavily in favor of big business at the expense of individual taxpayers.

Of the programs proposed by Nixon to implement the "new American revolution" he called for in his State of the Union message, welfare reform appears to have the best chance of enactment this session.

It has passed the House and Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he will resume hearings on it later this month.

The legislation contains broad increases in Social Security benefits as well as the welfare revisions and, Long said, there will be strong pressure for action on the Social Security portion.

Under his "new American revolution," Nixon also had asked for federal government reorganization. However, this has drawn strong opposition both from key Democrats and Republicans and Congress has shown no disposition to deal with it this session.

Before the August recess, congressional leaders were talking of a possible Oct. 15 adjournment for the session.

That idea went out the window with Nixon's economic announcement.

State Fair 2nd Biggest

Rain Hampers 118th Exposition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was the second-biggest year in history for the 118-year-old Ohio State Fair.

As one ExpOhio '71 official put it, "after five days of rain, that ain't bad."

A total of 2,182,125 persons visited the fair during its 12 days, about 37,000 fewer than last year, but more than any other year.

Monday's final-day Labor Day crowd was relatively sparse at 149,171, but rain in the afternoon contributed to the decline from Sunday's second-best-ever turnout of 250,587.

The all-time, single-day record was set the previous Sunday when 253,659 fairgoers passed through the gates.

Fair officials will be busy this week taking stock of the statistical achievements of the fair.

Melvin Fordyce, fiscal officer for the fair, said $2.5 million in receipts would be necessary to turn a profit. Last year's fair was in the black by $205,000.

One fair official said no financial report would be available for about a week.

"It'll take us a few days just to clean away the garbage. Then we'll start working on the papers," he said.

British Singer Tom Jones, probably the biggest drawing card on the free grandstand entertainment program, was never in any real danger of being mobbed by hysterical fans.

The only tragedy to mar the 12-day fair occurred Friday, when a Columbus man accidentally fell to his death from the suspended cable-car skyride. There was no indication of faulty equipment, however.

Members of the long-haired leisure set took up their accustomed place on Cardinal Isle, but the big red bird was none the worse for it. The constant attentions of younger fairgoers, however, did leave some new scrapes and bruises on the state bird.

Grand Jury Smallest To Be Heard

September's term of the Pickaway County Grand Jury got underway this morning with only twenty names on the list.

County Prosecutor Roy Huffer Jr. noted today that this was the smallest number of cases in any one term he has ever handled as prosecutor. In January more than 50 cases were listed and in April, over 40, which rank as the two largest terms during Huffer's service.

Of the 20, only one secret indictment was filed. Issuing checks with insufficient funds was the most common offense and was brought against three. Dales D. Reese, Jeffrey T. Babcock and David Campbell were considered for grand larceny; and James E. Claypool Jr., Larry E. Schwalbach, Walter Haddock, and Mary Sue Hart on various charges of assault.

Jurors also considered testimony against James L. Wright, non-support; Lowell Patrick Stanley, embezzlement; Richard Brink, defrauding an inn keeper; Kenneth E. Drengacs, non-support; Paul Eddie McMackin, obtaining property under false pretenses; Morton R. Burton, non-support; Sanford E. Larie, non-support; Kenneth Davis, kidnapping; and David Campbell Jr., breaking and entering.

Seated as jurors were Frances E. Chelikowsky, George M. Weller, J. Fred Colville, Wayne D. Hatfield, Ruth L. Dumm, Harry D. Metcalf, James L. Henderson, William M. Shaffer, Sue Spires, Patricia Young, Blanche Kerns, Arthur J. Deal Jr., Martha M. Wells, Betty Shonkwiler, and James R. Hamman.

Leaking Chlorine Sends Two Youths To Hospital

Mark Edward Frericks, 19, 334 Meadow Lane, and Paul Porter, 12, 615 Ridgewood Drive, were taken to Berger Hospital 7 p.m. Monday after being exposed to chlorine fumes at the Pickaway Country Club.

They had been working near a chlorine tank when the line broke, releasing the chlorine. Frericks was admitted to the hospital while Porter was treated and released.

Car Carrier Skid Stolen From Truck

Two thefts Sunday are under investigation by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

A double section car carrier skid was stolen from a truck parked at the H & S parking lot on Island Road.

The equipment, belonging to the Gold Coast Auto Brokers, was valued at $175.

Fred Johnson, London, reported the theft of $33.50 worth of dry wall tools from a house he is building on the Walnut Creek Pike.

He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Cary Blevins, 212 W. Mound St., entered a guilty plea to the charge of failure to pay the city Republicans in principle oppose income taxation, while some Democrats previously in favor of the tax are under strong pressure from organized labor to vote it down.

Just about the only thing Ohioans can be sure of is an eventual increase in taxes somewhere.

In the House, meanwhile, favorable action was expected in an Environmental and Natural Resources subcommittee on a strip mining bill to require that mine operators submit detailed reclamation plans before they can be licensed to operate.

The full House committee is expected to approve the bill and send it to the floor where a favorable vote is also anticipated. The measure, if approved in the lower chamber, is likely to encounter stiff opposition in the Senate, however.

On Wednesday the Senate is to vote on a bill that would permit minors to obtain medical treatment for drug-related illnesses without parents' consent. A similar measure dealing with venereal disease treatment passed earlier this year.

The House votes Thursday on a measure to establish a fur-lough system for honor prisoners in state penal institutions.

Stock List On Upside

NEW YORK (AP) — Sparked in part by encouraging economic developments during the weekend, the stock market posted sturdy gains today in active trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 7.23 at 919.98.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than 3 to 1 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said investors were returning to the market after the usual inactivity of August. They said investors were drawing encouragement from the Nixon administration's decision against an excess profits tax in the second phase of its new economic program.

In addition, analysts cited the possibility of controls on some interest rates.

Motors, rails, oils, electronics and airlines were among the stronger stock categories.

Among the big block trades before noon were these parcels: 325,800 shares of Eastern Air Lines at 21 1/4, unchanged; 90,000 shares of W.R. Grace at 32 1/4, off 1/4 and 60,000 shares of City Investing at 20, up 1/8.

Income tax Tuesday. He received a suspended fine of $50 and costs.

Vets Clean Up Cemetery To Honor Fallen Comrades

COLMA, Calif. (AP) — A group of veterans concerned about waist-high weeds that thrived due to a cemetery workers strike spent Labor Day grooming a browned two-acre plot where 900 comrades are buried.

"The grass is now cut and it looks like a fitting memorial to dead servicemen and veterans," said Wallace Levin, one of about 50 members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars from San Francisco, who with their wives and children spent all day working in Olivet Cemetery.

"You couldn't even read the gravestones in the morning, they were so covered with grass," said Levin.

They mowed the grass, removed dead plants and flowers, watered and fertilized.

Two years ago, when Golden Gate National Cemetery reached capacity, Olivet set aside an area with 1,000 gravesites for low-cost military burials.

A stone monument for veterans and a flagpole were erected, and each Sunday a VFW color guard lowered the American flag in brief memorial ceremonies.

"You know, we haven't had a memorial service since Memorial Day, because of the strike," said Donald Ellis, commander of the 550-member VFW Post 1205 in San Francisco.

"We wanted to get services started before the rains and Veterans Day, so we got to work," he said.

Ellis enlisted the permission of the striking Cemetery Workers Union and cemetery officials to go ahead with the cleanup project. He said the VFW services will resume next Sunday afternoon and that the post will continue to maintain the 900 graves.

Since a walkout by 235 green-skeepers and gravediggers June 3, Colma's 13 cemeteries have been covered with weeds and trash. As once-lush lawns turned brown, more than 1,500 bodies have been stored in mortuaries awaiting burial.

Brandt Planning Trip To Moscow

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt will travel to the Soviet Union this month, the West German government announced today.

A brief announcement said Brandt has accepted an invitation by Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to visit the Soviet Union in September.

The announcement came four days after the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France signed an agreement providing for improvements in the situation of divided Berlin, 110 miles inside East Germany.

For whom did the wedding bells toll? Well, let's see, we show listed on the Westfall band calendar, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Petty on Sept. 1; Harold and Norma Mace, Sept. 2; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis List on Sept. 3; Mr. and Mrs. David L. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. John Eitel Sr. and Sir Jack and Lady Pat Clark all on Sept. 7; Russell Shannons on Sept. 10 and Raymond Reitermans on Sept. 11.

Another kind of bell rang Wednesday a.m. and the 1971-72 Westfall school year became a reality. Pardon me while I pull in my face that is hanging out from the statement last column that after the first day bus routes and times would become adjusted. Correction would be more like it — it's your guess — I loused mine all up. All facetious remarks aside, it is a very real problem and I do not envy those persons having to cope with solving the situation. Orchids to the bus drivers in maintaining their cool thus far. There is one thing to be said for this mass confusion bordering on utter chaos, it gives us all plenty to talk about. Really, now, in a hundred years who will remember?

Happiness is learning the joyful news that sight of returning after a terrifying five days of being sightless and that's how it was at Grant Hospital this past weekend for our daddy Bill Easterday. Even better was the return trip to the doctor today (Thursday) and being told that with time and care vision would be just fine. He is still somewhat limited in his activities but after what we've been through, that will pass ever so quickly. Prayers are answered! Many thanks to our dear solicious friends without whom we would have been lost. Your cards, your calls, the many ways you reached out a helping hand will never be forgotten. God Bless you.

Two good buddies of long standing, Paul Ward of Ona, W. Va. and Lawrence Copen of Huntington, W. Va., were in our village Sunday afternoon and did much to cheer-up father Bill. They had been here two weeks before for an afternoon visit, too, but oh how differently the circumstances. Mr. Ward, by the way, has a fellow he knows who is hunting for a farm tenancy. The young man is 35 years old and according to our friend Paul, he is a very good and hard worker and quite experienced. We have an ad in the Herald classified section through Saturday in case any reader is interested.

Shucks, while talking about school, I should have related the misfortune that befell popular bus driver Helen (Paul baby's baby) Whitesed. A few days before school started she was removing paint from a window of the bus and when finished, by some mishap caught her ring finger on a piece of metal and severely lacerated the finger necessitating a number of stitches to close the wound. Her rings had to be cut from the finger, they were so badly misshapen. You better believe she was behind that wheel come Wednesday morning, though.

The darndest things happen to the nicest people don't they? Another weirdy was the accident that befell sixth grader Sherri Garrison, a daughter of Bob and Iris. Sherri had hip surgery this summer and was on crutches but coming along very well. In fact, she expected to enroll for classes at Jackson. Alas! she caught her crutch in a piece of freshly laundered clothing, fell and suffered a broken arm. We all love you and wish a speedy return to good health, Sherri.

Too late to make the news last week was a tidbit from Mr. Arthur Frazier. His daughter Mildred (Mrs. Dan Jording) and her two, Barbara and Bradley of Dayton were his house guests Tuesday and Wednesday. He does enjoy having his children come "a'calling."

BooHoo said Teresa Graffis when she had to return home last Saturday after a week's camping trip with her grandfather Ralph Piper of Lancaster. They encamped at Burr Oak State Park. Cousin Jimmy Porter of Columbus, who has been with John and Sue Graffis during August went with grandfather, too, as well as another granddaughter of Lancaster and granddad's wife Edna. All good things must come to an end. Why?

One way to banish the summer doldrums is to throw a bash and that's what Rozella Hamric and Gwinn Lane did for the youngsters (mercy, these are Jr. Hi swingers — forgot myself for a moment). The place to meet was the Lane pad and groovin' to the beat were Nancy Schein, Tina and Vicki Cottrill, Jim and Mike Fausnaugh, Jennifer Clark, Doug Garrison, Ann (how did that eleventh grader get in there?), Ted, Beverly and Tony Hamric, Jeff, Doug, Kristi, Jay and Amy (a pampers member) Lane. So, o.k., there was something for a varied age group. Right on, man.

Deliveries are being made as of this evening to those supporters of the Westfall band calendar sale. It may take a couple days or so to get around to everybody but hang in there like that much time before pushing the panic button. BUT after a reasonable time and you have not received yours, then by all means get on the Alexander Graham Bell (short for phone) to the member who sold to you and check it out. Our Becki expects to cover her area by Monday but with mother being up to her unplucked eyebrows in plans for the Williamsport Sulphur Springs Festival, it could get complicated. Little would I ever have thought it a blessing for sixteen year old Marc to have his driver's license but folks, I do, believe me, I do! This past month he has relieved me of many an errand.

Any time now our household shall experience the thrill (and I use the word reservedly) of having three teen-agers living under the same roof. We were one of the fortunate families selected to host an Internation Fellowship, Inc., exchange student for Westfall District. Our eighteen year old son, Fernando Maya, of Quito, Ecuador is due to arrive most any day. He will be enrolled as a senior. Ideally the program desires the student be with a host family for three months, so if any families in the Westfall district are interested please let us know. Fernando will be here for the entire school session and we eagerly look forward to our "new addition."

Faith Ann Pickleseimer will be home with mom and dad,

Esther and Charlie, this weekend after a fabulous vacation with big sis Janet Lovett, her mate Dave and their Trent, at Myrtle Beach, S. Carolina. The Lovetts are former Round-towners who now are making it down Athens way.

Do you remember hearing the horns blow, the bells ring and the twenty-one gun salute on Saturday, August 21? Well, in case you haven't heard, that was to herald the debut into this world of Miss Stacy Colleen Beck. She is the first papoose of Chief Roger and Squaw Sue Beck (he is otherwise affectionately known as the principal of Westfall). Tipping the scales at 8 lbs. 12 oz., Stacy Colleen follows the Beck tradition of not doing things half way.

Home from a 5000 mile trip that took her into 19 states and two countries our own sprightly Elizabeth Ebenhack enjoyed every minute of it. Going first by bus to Tulsa, Oklahoma she spent a week with son Marcus and his family. They all took off by car for Leander, Texas and a few days with friends. Next was a tour across the southernmost states to Melbourne, Florida and for a couple of days they were the houseguests of Mrs. E's brother, Marvin Wright and his spouse, the former New Holland gal, Flossie Davis. The Wrights showed the visitors all the tourist sights and of course she gathered sea shells by the sea shore. From here the travelers drove up the eastern coast (and somewhere along the line went through an enormous tunnel) to Montreal, Canada. Here they visited another good friend of Marcus' who had been in an accident. Early one morning they departed Montreal and that evening were sitting in the home of L. V. Ebenhack and family at Cleveland. They spent the night and the next day (last Wednesday) Mrs. E. was at home sweet home. The Marcus Ebenhacks slept over here that night and hit the trail for Tulsa the next day.

FESTIVAL
The wheels are really rolling bringing things into focus for the big four day funfilled festival to be held Sept. 22-26. A complete rundown of all events scheduled will be columned next week. The response of local merchants has been most gratifying and anyone wishing to contribute to help defray expenses may do so by sending to Williamsport Sulphur Springs Festival Organization, First National Bank, Williamsport, Ohio 43164.

John Drummond remains a patient at University Hospital and the entire town has him in their thoughts and wish him the very best. Glyn Linville is on the mend after a bout with encephalitis and for her, too, may it soon be nothing but sunshine and roses.

Michele Rene' McAllister of West Point, Ky., born July 30 had her parents, David and Elizabeth bring her up for a week end so grandparents, Betty McAllister, Clark McAllister and the Kenneth Seymours could see first hand what a doll she is.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Iris Garrison, Suzan Bivens, Russell Carson, John Reisinger, Sept. 6; Mickey Horn, Chuckie Graffis, Russell (Cotton) Timmons, Gene Bush, Nancy McDill, Sept. 7; Pat Metzger, Linda Funk McGarvey, Jamie Rowland, Missy Mowery, Lovell Hammond, Sept. 8; Chris Hansen, Danny Bowen, Bruce Willis, John Shaeffer, Sally Lemaster, Roxanne Francis, Sept. 9; Brenda Schleich, Lynda Writsel Conrad, Evelyn (Lovell's love) Hammond, Anne Tarbill, Angela Sue Drummond, Jeffrey Dearth, Sherry Kneec, Paul Bivens, Sept. 10; Norma Schleich Graham, Mrs. Oyer Williams, Loretta Keller, Jane Huffer, Nancy Huffer, Sept. 11; Karen Roush, Alan Underwood, Lisa Hughes, Sept. 12; Della Lemming, Bob Picklesimer, Sept. 13.

For whom did the wedding bells toll? Well, let's see, we show listed on the Westfall band calendar, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Petty on Sept. 1; Harold and Norma Mace, Sept. 2; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis List on Sept. 3; Mr. and Mrs. David L. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. John Eitel Sr. and Sir Jack and Lady Pat Clark all on Sept. 7; Russell Shannons on Sept. 10 and Raymond Reitermans on Sept. 11.

Another kind of bell rang Wednesday a.m. and the 1971-72 Westfall school year became a reality. Pardon me while I pull in my face that is hanging out from the statement last column that after the first day bus routes and times would become adjusted. Correction would be more like it — it's your guess — I loused mine all up. All facetious remarks aside, it is a very real problem and I do not envy those persons having to cope with solving the situation. Orchids to the bus drivers in maintaining their cool thus far. There is one thing to be said for this mass confusion bordering on utter chaos, it gives us all plenty to talk about. Really, now, in a hundred years who will remember?

Happiness is learning the joyful news that sight of returning after a terrifying five days of being sightless and that's how it was at Grant Hospital this past weekend for our daddy Bill Easterday. Even better was the return trip to the doctor today (Thursday) and being told that with time and care vision would be just fine. He is still somewhat limited in his activities but after what we've been through, that will pass ever so quickly. Prayers are answered! Many thanks to our dear solicious friends without whom we would have been lost. Your cards, your calls, the many ways you reached out a helping hand will never be forgotten. God Bless you.

Two good buddies of long standing, Paul Ward of Ona, W. Va. and Lawrence Copen of Huntington, W. Va., were in our village Sunday afternoon and did much to cheer-up father Bill. They had been here two weeks before for an afternoon visit, too, but oh how differently the circumstances. Mr. Ward, by the way, has a fellow he knows who is hunting for a farm tenancy. The young man is 35 years old and according to our friend Paul, he is a very good and hard worker and quite experienced. We have an ad in the Herald classified section through Saturday in case any reader is interested.

Shucks, while talking about school, I should have related the misfortune that befell popular bus driver Helen (Paul baby's baby) Whitesed. A few days before school started she was removing paint from a window of the bus and when finished, by some mishap caught her ring finger on a piece of metal and severely lacerated the finger necessitating a number of stitches to close the wound. Her rings had to be cut from the finger, they were so badly misshapen. You better believe she was behind that wheel come Wednesday morning, though.

The darndest things happen to the nicest people don't they? Another weirdy was the accident that befell sixth grader Sherri Garrison, a daughter of Bob and Iris. Sherri had hip surgery this summer and was on crutches but coming along very well. In fact, she expected to enroll for classes at Jackson. Alas! she caught her crutch in a piece of freshly laundered clothing, fell and suffered a broken arm. We all love you and wish a speedy return to good health, Sherri.

Too late to make the news last week was a tidbit from Mr. Arthur Frazier. His daughter Mildred (Mrs. Dan Jording) and her two, Barbara and Bradley of Dayton were his house guests Tuesday and Wednesday. He does enjoy having his children come "a'calling."

BooHoo said Teresa Graffis when she had to return home last Saturday after a week's camping trip with her grandfather Ralph Piper of Lancaster. They encamped at Burr Oak State Park. Cousin Jimmy Porter of Columbus, who has been with John and Sue Graffis during August went with grandfather, too, as well as a nother granddaughter of Lancaster and granddad's wife Edna. All good things must come to an end. Why?

One way to banish the summer doldrums is to throw a bash and that's what Rozella Hamric and Gwinn Lane did for the youngsters (mercy, these are Jr. Hi swingers — forgot myself for a moment). The place to meet was the Lane pad and groovin' to the beat were Nancy Schein, Tina and Vicki Cottrill, Jim and Mike Fausnaugh, Jennifer Clark, Doug Garrison, Ann (how did that eleventh grader get in there?), Ted, Beverly and Tony Hamric, Jeff, Doug, Kristi, Jay and Amy (a pampers member) Lane. So, o.k., there was something for a varied age group. Right on, man.

Deliveries are being made as of this evening to those supporters of the Westfall band calendar sale. It may take a couple days or so to get around to everybody but hang in there like that much time before pushing the panic button. BUT after a reasonable time and you have not received yours, then by all means get on the Alexander Graham Bell (short for phone) to the member who sold to you and check it out. Our Becki expects to cover her area by Monday but with mother being up to her unplucked eyebrows in plans for the Williamsport Sulphur Springs Festival, it could get complicated. Little would I ever have thought it a blessing for sixteen year old Marc to have his driver's license but folks, I do, believe me, I do! This past month he has relieved me of many an errand.

Any time now our household shall experience the thrill (and I use the word reservedly) of having three teenagers living under the same roof. We were one of the fortunate families selected to host an Internation Fellowship, Inc., exchange student for Westfall District. Our eighteen year old son, Fernando Maya, of Quito, Ecuador is due to arrive most any day. He will be enrolled as a senior. Ideally the program desires the student be with a host family for three months, so if any families in the Westfall district are interested please let us know. Fernando will be here for the entire school session and we eagerly look forward to our "new addition."

Faith Ann Pickleseimer will be home with mom and dad.

Esther and Charlie, this weekend after a fabulous vacation with big sis Janet Lovett, her mate Dave and their Trent, at Myrtle Beach, S. Carolina. The Lovetts are former Round-towners who now are making it down Athens way.

Do you remember hearing the horns blow, the bells ring and the twenty-one gun salute on Saturday, August 21? Well, in case you haven't heard, that was to herald the debut into this world of Miss Stacy Colleen Beck. She is the first papoose of Chief Roger and Squaw Sue Beck (he is otherwise affectionately known as the principal of Westfall). Tipping the scales at 8 lbs. 12 oz., Stacy Colleen follows the Beck tradition of not doing things half way.

Home from a 5000 mile trip that took her into 19 states and two countries our own sprightly Elizabeth Ebenhack enjoyed every minute of it. Going first by bus to Tulsa, Oklahoma she spent a week with son Marcus and his family. They all took off by car for Leander, Texas and a few days with friends. Next was a tour across the southernmost states to Melbourne, Florida and for a couple of days they were the houseguests of Mrs. E's brother, Marvin Wright and his spouse, the former New Holland gal, Flossie Davis. The Wrights showed the visitors all the tourist sights and of course she gathered sea shells by the sea shore. From here the travelers drove up the eastern coast (and somewhere along the line went through an enormous tunnel) to Montreal, Canada. Here they visited another good friend of Marcus' who had been in an accident. Early one morning they departed Montreal and that evening were sitting in the home of L. V. Ebenhack and family at Cleveland. They spent the night and the next day (last Wednesday) Mrs. E. was at home sweet home. The Marcus Ebenhacks slept over here that night and hit the trail for Tulsa the next day.

FESTIVAL
The wheels are really rolling bringing things into focus for the big four day fun-filled festival to be held Sept. 22-26. A complete rundown of all events scheduled will be columned next week. The response of local merchants has been most gratifying and anyone wishing to contribute to help defray expenses may do so by sending to Williamsport Sulphur Springs Festival Organization, First National Bank, Williamsport, Ohio 43164.

Nuclear Test

"Cannikin" is an obscure term for a small wooden bucket and is also the code name for the test sometime in October of a new nuclear weapon equivalent in strength to 5 million tons of TNT 6,000 feet deep in the Aleutian island of Amchitka.

Protests have pointed to the possibility of the blast triggering earthquakes or of generating a tidal wave that could reach to Hawaii. Other critics fear harm to wildlife and environment.

To all of this the Atomic Energy

Commission has replied that such results are highly unlikely.

The necessity for testing military weapons is clear enough. American torpedoes failed frequently in the first six months of World War II because of insufficient practical testing.

Another argument is that most of the $200 million appropriated for drilling the two vertical tunnels and the placing of measuring devices has been spent.

There is no sound military or other reason why this test should be postponed.

Welcome Visit

Japan's Emperor Hirohito may be only a figurehead with limited authority, but he is a respected elder among his people. His upcoming meeting with President Nixon in Alaska late in September could do much to offset deteriorating economic relations between the two countries.

The Anchorage meeting will be historic in several ways. It will be the first time an American president and a reigning Japanese emperor have met and the first time an emperor has set foot on American soil. The Alaskan stop is a prelude to Hirohito's European visit — the first trip abroad taken by a reigning emperor.

Aside from all the "firsts" involved, the meeting will be the first direct meeting between leaders of the two countries since the United States announced its new China policy and since the President's new economic game plan was unveiled.

Both moves have important implications for Japan's important export business. An opportunity to reinforce mutual friendships between the two peoples at this point assumes added importance.

Welfare Battle

By JEFFERY HART

Though we are told that ours is an age without heroes, I would like to nominate the quiet bachelor now residing at Number Ten Downing Street as hero enough for my money. First of all, the substance of achievement is palpably there, Edward Heath's record so far making the so-called thousand days of Jack Kennedy look like an extended lawn party.

Heath's labor union reform legislation has now gone through, for the first time introducing some sense into England's labor picture, immemorably plagued by wildest strikes and parochial passions. Heath has faced down strikes by the postal workers and the electrical workers and found public support building behind him. He has taken on Britain's system of socialized medicine and introduced the idea that those who can afford to do so ought to pay modest fees for prescriptions and so on. He has cut away much of the bureaucratic structure set up by the Wilson government for planning industrial production, and he has allowed the Rolls-Royce Corporation to pay for its errors of judgment by taking a salutary economic bath.

And, climactically, he is guiding England toward Common Market entry, again finding that public opinion is swinging around to support him on this immense step. As a dividend here, Heath can enjoy the spectacle of a badly split Labour Party and an utterly discomfited Harold Wilson, whose performance on the Common Market issue, as they are saying in London, would have cost him all of his credibility if he had had any credibility.

Most delicious of all, perhaps, is the style in which Heath is bringing all of this off. Heath behaving like the exact opposite of the other-directed, PR-oriented, eyes-glued-to-the-polls contemporary politician. As the various controversies swirled around him, Heath took time off to sail in the Admiral's Cup, which he never misses, keeping in touch with the shore only by his single ship-to-shore radio telephone. He was hardly hanging on the latest profundities of the BBC or the London Times.

Heath's indifference to the attitudes of the press has in fact become something of a scandal. It was reported in the British press that the Prime Minister "does not care much what the press says about him or his government. He adheres to the view so the allegation goes, that the press generally gets it wrong."

The press, for its part, rose in indignation. Heath's indifference, said the Guardian, showed "an oddly egotistical attitude for a politician. Unless the entire country shared this low opinion of the press and always discarded as worthless rubbish any comments it made on the political scene, a Prime Minister could not, one might think, afford to treat it as totally irrelevant, whether he wanted to or not." Yet, admitted the Guardian, "press punditry has no effect on his action," and it concluded that "Mr. Heath belongs to that section of the middle class which is unaffected by the philosophical and political cross-currents swirling about in the intellectual weeklies, the leader pages of the posh Sundays, the activist groupings of left or right."

A refreshing contrast indeed, when one thinks of LBJ with his six TV sets, the current turned on 24 hours a day, and of the fevers of our own Fourth Estate, whose desire to impose its own foreign and domestic policies is potent only to the degree that people will listen.

VIRTUALLY every man in his youth has fallen madly in love with some far-off, inaccessible movie queen. Norma Talmadge was the girl who made my heart beat faster.

Humorist S. J. Perelman confesses that he fell successfully for the charms of Corinne Griffith, Priscilla Dean, Aileen Pringle, and most madly of all, for Nita Naldi, with whom he once wrote it was his "boyhood ambition to coast on a Flexible Flyer."

The manager of a branch bank of the Fourth National found assistant receiving teller Herman Popover in a suicidal mood when he reported for work one Monday morning. "Why the gloom?" asked the manager.

Responded Herman mournfully, "Remember my telling you I had a wonderful new girl—rich, beautiful, brilliant—who had sworn to me she'd adore me till the cows came home? Well, last night, dammit, the cows came home!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is ringworm of the skin a contagious disease?

Mrs. L. A. L., Ala. Dear Mrs. L.: Ringworm must be considered contagious although it is not as easily contracted from other people as other common infectious diseases.

Ringworm is caused by a fungus. There are many varieties. When it occurs on the scalp it is known as tinea capitis — on the body, tinea corporis — on the beard, tinea barbae. The condition can also occur in the groin, around the nails, and on the skin between the toes.

Good family hygiene is an excellent precaution against passing ringworm from one person to another. Common towels and slippers must be avoided, especially in gymnasiums where the fungus is so prevalent.

Many new excellent medicines applied directly to the skin surface, and others taken directly by mouth, are effective in control of ringworm. Griseofulvin, taken under a doctor's supervision, is a beneficial drug. A special lamp, known as the Wood lamp, is used to detect ringworm of the scalp and to differentiate it from other conditions.

Can a newborn infant contract venereal disease from its mother? We are studying venereal disease in school, and I would like to write a report on it.

Dear Miss Y.: There are two major forms of venereal disease: syphilis and gonorrhea. Syphilis can be transmitted to the newborn child, and often leaves him with many disorders, none of which he deserves.

This severe disease is passed on by the mother to the child through the blood stream. Gonorrhea, caused by the gonococcus germ, may lie in the birth canal or the vagina through which the newborn child has just passed. The germ can and often does cause infection of the delicate lining of the eye. As a preventative against this and other germs all newborn children are required by law to have antibiotic drops put in their eyes. I hope that you and young students all over the world will learn that venereal disease is one of the greatest threats to their permanent happiness.

If ever it does occur, it must be brought to the attention of

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Everyone has heard about the rising costs of state and local governments. But if there are lingering doubts in the minds of some people they should be dispelled by the latest statistics on bond sales.

In the first six months of the year, the Investment Bankers Association calculates that municipal bond sales leaped to $12.7 billion, a 63 per cent increase over the $7.8 billion in public financing a year earlier.

With only half a year's sales compiled, 1971 was already two-thirds of the way toward a new annual record that would surpass last year's year-end figure of $18.1 billion.

Where did the money go?

That's what the taxpayers keep asking, but the records indicate that education topped the list, taking $3.1 billion of the funds, at 29 per cent increase over 1970.

Following in order were transportation, up 86 per cent; utilities, up 89 per cent, and social welfare—which includes public housing—171 per cent.

The greatest percentage increase among states in which sales exceeded $200 million were Kentucky, up 410 per cent, Oregon 300, North Carolina 275, Florida 178 and New Jersey 133.

Among other things, the figures reflect the need for new and better schools and housing unemployment, the demands being made for clean air and water, and the growing need for urban transit systems to relieve congestion.

And it underscores the plight of many local and state governments which find it hard enough to support the traditional amenities without taking on, as they feel they are, an unfair load of national social problems.

The news is not all bad, however. The stock market last Friday seemed to be forecasting better times both for budget-strained municipalities and profit-pinch corporations.

In a decided departure from most preholiday markets, when business is dull and brokers flee to their favorite resorts and return some money to the economy, business was heavy and prices were rising.

The number of explanations you could obtain for the absence of the "preholiday lull" was limited only by the number of telephone calls you wished to make, a common enough situation in a business that thrives on the interpretation of facts as much as on the facts themselves.

One answer seemed to prevail, however. It was that interest rates on bonds were slipping lower, meaning that investors who had bought bonds because of high yields might now return to the stock market.

And, of course, lower interest rates would lower the cost of doing business and therefore be reflected in profits.

10 YEARS AGO

Clark R. (Pappy) Moore, a native and long-time resident of Circleville, announced in Chicago, Ill. that he would retire with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The 38-year government service veteran was a nephew of Mrs. Milton B. Kellstadt.

Construction plans for a new post office building in New Holland took more definite form when the Postmaster general announced the Grandview Construction Co., Columbus, had been awarded a contract to build and lease a structure to the Post Office Department. The site was located on the east side of Main St. between South Alley and the Pennsylvania Railroad line.

Robert Wood took over the duties of the Pickaway County Treasurer's Office in the courthouse, succeeding Robert J. Colville.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. officially acquired two tracts of land, totalling 116.71 acres, from the Crites Milling Co. for a proposed new plant.

Circleville Tigers crushed Paint Valley in their opening game on the grid field, 36-0. Halfback Freddie Moore caught a punt with less than two minutes gone from the game and carried it 52 yards for the Tigers' first mark.

A 36-year-old Columbus woman was arrested here and cited by city police for littering when she tossed a flower pot from her moving auto onto W. Main St. She paid a $50 fine.

Veteran Ned B. Griner, 46, died following a lengthy illness at his home. He had established his medical practice in Circleville in 1941.

Three buildings were viewed by county commissioners as possible sites to house the county welfare agency. They were the Veterans Apartment unit, Memorial Hall and the Tull M. Barnes property at 121 S. Scioto St.

The presidential limousine created quite a stir in downtown Roundtown while it was parked before a local restaurant. JFK did not pay a secret visit to Circleville, though. A government official who refused to be identified, was enroute to Cincinnati on an undisclosed mission.

The Merle Turner Subdivision in the city's southend was accepted for annexation by city fathers.

Is ringworm of the skin a contagious disease?

Mrs. I. A. L., Ala. Dear Mrs. L.: Ringworm must be considered contagious although it is not as easily contracted from other people as other common infectious diseases.

Ringworm is caused by a fungus. There are many varieties. When it occurs on the scalp it is known as tinea capitis — on the body, tinea corporis — on the beard, tinea barbae. The condition can also occur in the groin, around the nails, and on the skin between the toes.

Good family hygiene is an excellent precaution against passing ringworm from one person to another. Common towels and slippers must be avoided, especially in gymnasiums where the fungus is so prevalent.

Many new excellent medicines applied directly to the skin surface, and others taken directly by mouth, are effective in control of ringworm.

Griseofulvin, taken under a doctor's supervision, is a beneficial drug. A special lamp, known as the Wood lamp, is used to detect ringworm of the scalp and to differentiate it from other conditions.

Can a newborn infant contract venereal disease from its mother? We are studying venereal disease in school, and I would like to write a report on it.

Miss R. V. Y., Del. Dear Miss Y.: There are two major forms of venereal disease: syphilis and gonorrhea. Syphilis can be transmitted to the newborn child, and often leaves him with many disorders, none of which he deserves. This severe disease is passed on by the mother to the child through the blood stream.

Gonorrhea, caused by the gonococcus germ, may lie in the birth canal or the vagina through which the newborn child has just passed. The germ can and often does cause infection of the delicate lining of the eye. As a preventative against this and other germs all newborn children are required by law to have antibiotic drops put in their eyes. I hope that you and young students all over the world will learn that venereal disease is one of the greatest threats to their permanent happiness.

If ever it does occur, it must be brought to the attention of the doctor for immediate and intensive treatment. By hiding these conditions from parents and doctors young people invite a lifetime penalty of disease and complications.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Everyone has heard about the rising costs of state and local governments. But if there are lingering doubts in the minds of some people they should be dispelled by the latest statistics on bond sales.

In the first six months of the year, the Investment Bankers Association calculates that municipal bond sales leaped to $12.7 billion, a 63 per cent increase over the $7.8 billion in public financing a year earlier.

With only half a year's sales compiled, 1971 was already two-thirds of the way toward a new annual record that would surpass last year's yearend figure of $18.1 billion.

Where did the money go?

That's what the taxpayers keep asking, but the records indicate that education topped the list, taking $3.1 billion of the funds, at 29 per cent increase over 1970.

Following in order were transportation, up 86 per cent; utilities, up 89 per cent, and social welfare—which includes public housing—171 per cent.

The greatest percentage increase among states in which sales exceeded $200 million were Kentucky, up 410 per cent, Oregon 300, North Carolina 275, Florida 178 and New Jersey 133.

Among other things, the figures reflect the need for new and better schools and housing unemployment, the demands being made for clean air and water, and the growing need for urban transit systems to relieve congestion.

And it underscores the plight of many local and state governments which find it hard enough to support the traditional amenities without taking on, as they feel they are, an unfair load of national social problems.

The news is not all bad, however. The stock market last Friday seemed to be forecasting better times both for budget-strained municipalities and profit-pinched corporations.

In a decided departure from most preholiday markets, when business is dull and brokers flee to their favorite resorts and return some money to the economy, business was heavy and prices were rising.

The number of explanations you could obtain for the absence of the "preholiday lull" was limited only by the number of telephone calls you wished to make, a common enough situation in a business that thrives on the interpretation of facts as much as on the facts themselves.

One answer seemed to prevail, however. It was that interest rates on bonds were slipping lower, meaning that investors who had bought bonds because of high yields might now return to the stock market.

And, of course, lower interest rates would lower the cost of doing business and therefore be reflected in profits.

Miss Bonnie Lynn Rickey Bride Of William Penland

MRS. WILLIAM RANDOLPH PENLAND

Miss Bonnie Lynn Rickey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William A. Rickey, 822 N. Court St. and Mr. William Randolph Penland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford W. Penland of Stow, were united in marriage 2:30 p.m. Sept. 4. The Rev. Paul I. Wachs performed the double ring ceremony before the altar adorned with arrangements of white gladioli and daisies and two single tapered candles with daisies and orchids.

A program of music was presented by Mr. Dennis Chapman, vocalist of Akron and Mr. Jack Mader, organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected for her wedding day a traditional white gown of cotton lace over bridal taffeta, scalloped round neckline edged with a single row of pearls and bishop sleeves with deep cuffs. The fitted bodice with self buttons and a line of satin ribbon down the front featured an empire waistline topped a controlled skirt. A Juliet cap with wide lace trim held the bride's blusher veil and chapel length train of net. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies and phalaenopsis orchids with a spray of white ribbon streamers with love knots.

Mrs. Hanns Pieper of Baton Rouge, La., served her sister as matron of honor. She was in a turquoise cotton formal length gown with bishop sleeves and empire waistline. White peasant embroidery embellished the bodice and deep cuffs and she carried a colonial bouquet of purple asters and pink Marguerite daisies.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Rickey, Mrs. Joseph Pottebaum, Columbus and Miss Susan Bennett, Circleville. They were gowned identically to the honor attendant and carried matching bouquets. Headpieces were matching Juliet caps with brief veils.

Mr. John Short of Upper Arlington was best man. Ushers were Mr. Gary Swank, Cuyahoga Falls; Mr. Fred Rickey, brother of the bride and Mr. Hanns Pieper, brother-in-law of the bride, Baton Rouge, La.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rickey selected a powder blue dress with lace trim accenting the cummerbund and deep cuffs. Mrs. Penland was attired in a dress of lavender cotton voile with full long sleeves and embroidered trim. Both mothers wore corsages of white orchids.

A reception in the social rooms of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake, topped with a pink and white floral arrangement, was encircled with greenery and matching flowers. Hostesses were Miss Rita Delmoe, Zanesville; Mrs. James Archer, Elida; Miss Kathy Gearhart, New Haven, Conn.; Mrs. Dennis Parrott, Circleville; Mrs. John Grant, Worthington.

For a wedding trip to Virginia the bride was attired in a knit dress of bittersweet with ivory accents and matching accessories. Upon returning the couple will reside at 1825 Kenny Road, Columbus.

The new Mrs. Penland is a

The theme for the year is "Aim High To Achieve Your Goal" from which Mrs. Robert Scranton will base a speech she will deliver.

A graduate of Circleville High School, attended Miami University and received a bachelor of arts degree from the Ohio State University. She is a dental hygienist and is employed by the Ohio State University as an instructor in the department of dental hygiene.

Mr. Penland graduated from Stow High School, attended Kent State University and is presently a senior in microbiology at the Ohio State University.

Special guests at the wedding were grandmothers, Mrs. Elsie Chester of Circleville and Mrs. C. D. Rickey of Prospect.

A rehearsal dinner Friday evening at Wardell's Party Home was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Buford Penland, parents of the bridegroom. The table was decorated with fruit and floral arrangements fashioned by Mrs. Penland.

TUESDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to look into all available sources for ideas through which you could start some new undertakings that would give you the chance to express potential talents. Your mind is now keen and sharp, so use it to advantage.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is a good time to improve both health and appearance so that you become a more charming person. You can gad about socially later and conduct business that way best. See right people.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can get into private affairs today that will help you progress faster, give you a different approach to problems. Be with people who can supply information you need. Entertain them.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to get together with good pals who have brilliant ideas that can help you in the future. Enjoy that hobby later that relaxes you. Much happiness with mate is possible tonight.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Bigwigs can be helpful to you now, but you have to listen carefully to what they have to say. Attend social affairs in p.m. and make new contacts of worth. Dress your best.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can make progress now if you use the excellent ideas you have and contact bigwigs you have not seen in a long time. Improve certain deals you have going on others. Show you are a clever person.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have many duties to take care of and can accomplish much if you apply yourself seriously. Keep promises made to mate last week. Don't let anyone interfere in your private life.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listening to what others say and being willing to help them with their aims and plans profits you also now. Come to a real understanding with associates and mutual aims take on a new luster. Show devotion to family this evening.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can delve into all that work ahead of you and make big strides forward that bring in fine benefits later on. You can come to a real agreement with co-workers that steps up production. Take the lead.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make plans early for the recreational activities that appeal to you. Much happiness can come from this. Showing devotion to mate adds to the enjoyment of the evening.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take a new tack at solving problems within the home and they are soon out of the way. Buy the articles you need to make your home more attractive and comfortable. Know that others judge you pretty much by your surroundings.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day for much activity, shopping, keeping appointments, helping others, getting ahead in career. Keep active and you feel better and can accomplish much. Just get into the right mood early in a.m.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to have a bigger income and this is fine, provided you get into worthwhile new outlets ethically. You have ideas you have not expressed and this is a good time to do so. Reap the benefits therefrom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who likes to serve others and be generally helpful with everyone. Encourage this trait since the life will be spent making money at just such activities for the public in general. Your youngster will be tested for bravery at times and at other times the life will go along on a very placid and almost monotonous note. Give as much education and religious training as desired.

WEDNESDAY'S HOROSCOPE
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Control impulse to spend more than you can afford; try to economize where it will not injure vital activities to which you are committed. Make whatever repairs you can without too much expense on your property and possessions as well.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your financial situation so that you know exactly where to make changes to your benefit. Business expert you know has little time for you now. Wait a better day to see this person.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you feel you are not progressing in personal affairs as you would like to, being forceful with others ruins things. Tomorrow the situation changes. Get busy improving health and appearance.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Safeguard your reputation, otherwise some indiscreet action could cause real trouble you do not deserve, or want. An irate official may criticize, but don't let this bother you. Show you are astute.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try not to pester friends to help you monetarily since they are pretty much in the same boat. Steer clear of that group meeting where trouble could ensue. Good day for reading.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid bigwigs who are in mood to be critical of you today and get busy with own affairs. Make sure you pay bills that are due. Forget work tonight and get busy with entertaining or other social activities.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although you have excellent ideas, this is not a good day to put them in operation, since you do not have enough information about them. A newcomer can disappoint you now. Stick to the tried and true.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You had better get busy at all that work ahead of you and pay your bills, even though the pressure makes you feel you are a martyr. Then you can relax tomorrow. Happiness with mate in p.m.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Figure out how best to handle those affairs intelligently even though a partner wants own way exclusively. Show tact with those who oppose you. Evening will then be an interesting one from the social standpoint.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If one is a bit of a hypochondriac, a lunch break with Chad Everett gives one the nice, warm feeling of a security blanket.
Everett—about to enter his third CBS season as "Medical Center's" all-around practitioner of medicine and surgery, Dr. Joe Gannon,—looks and acts just the way one wishes the family doctor would. He also uses words such as "aneurism" with the fluency of a man who has spent a lifetime peering at X rays.
Although the operating room scenes occupy only a fraction on any episode's time, Everett prepares for them with the intensity of an athlete training for the Olympics.
He is particularly proud of some fan mail he received from real doctors congratulating him on his skill manipulating a pair of Metzenbaum scissors in an operating room scene.
"They are used to cut blood vessels," the actor explained. "You hold them for cutting between the thumb and the third finger, and then swing them back to free your other fingers for tying off vessels and using sponges. It really took a lot of practice to get the hang of it."

As in other medical series, the sickness and surgery sequences of "Medical Center" are handled cautiously. A committee of a medical association checks out the scripts and there are many technical advisers. Everett prepared to play doctor by spending hours in a hospital. He also took 48 hours of color film showing doctors at work in operating rooms and he looks at this library frequently.
The actor has picked up so much medical knowledge that when his dog recently ripped his ear in a fight, the veterinarian asked Chad if he wanted to help seal the animal up. Everett declined, he said hastily.
Everett said the series will continue to feature contemporary themes, some of which would have been out of TV bounds a few seasons back—male impotence and artificial insemination. There also is one about a great surgeon in failing health with a "ghost surgeon" who steps in to handle the difficult, delicate parts of his operations.

Dear Abby: Straight From The Dog's Mouth

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I can't remember when I read anything more sickening than that letter about the woman whose poodle licked a 4-year-old child on the mouth. When the child's mother asked the poodle owner to please keep her dog away from the child, the poodle owner said her dog's mouth was cleaner than a human's, and she hoped her dog wouldn't catch anything from the child.

So help me some people are nuts. Please tell that dizzy dame who owned the poodle if she's so up tight about the dog, she should muzzle the baby.
NAUSEATED IN OMAHA
DEAR ABBY: That lady was right! A dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's. You have never seen a dog with rotten teeth and you never will. I would sooner give my dog a lick of my ice cream cone than you.

LOVES DOGS IN TULSA
DEAR ABBY: Are you on some kind of trip? Did you say a dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's? I am a faithful reader but I am . . .

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU
DEAR ABBY: The bacterial and germ counts are lower in dogs' mouths than in humans'.

DEAR ABBY: All dog lover's have a screw loose. Listen to this. When my husband was in the service his sister invited me to stay with her because her husband was also away in the service. We were going to share one large double bed until I discovered she let her 60-pound Labrador sleep with her. I gave her a choice: the dog or me. She chose the dog. I never did stay with her and our relationship has been very cool ever since.

NO DOG LOVER IN BOSTON
DEAR ABBY: I suppose your readers thought you flipped your lid when you confirmed the statement a dog's mouth was cleaner than a human's. Well, I can confirm your statement and I speak from experience. I was playing handball, and in a scuffle I accidentally bit my tongue badly. I was hospitalized for several days, during which I was injected with every kind of serum known to man to prevent tetanus.

I always kept my mouth and teeth clean and was a nut on body hygiene. The doctor shocked me when he said, "We can't take any chances with a human bite. There are more germs in the mouth of a human than in the mouth of any animal." Sign me: PROTECTED AGAINST MYSELF

He also uses words such as "aneurism" with the fluency of a man who has spent a lifetime peering at X rays.

Although the operating room scenes occupy only a fraction on any episode's time, Everett prepares for them with the intensity of an athlete training for the Olympics.

He is particularly proud of some fan mail he received from real doctors congratulating him on his skill manipulating a pair of Metzenbaum scissors in an operating room scene.

"They are used to cut blood vessels," the actor explained. "You hold them for cutting between the thumb and the third finger, and then swing them back to free your other fingers for tying off vessels and using sponges. It really took a lot of practice to get the hang of it."

As in other medical series, the sickness and surgery sequences of "Medical Center" are handled cautiously. A committee of a medical association checks out the scripts and there are many technical advisers. Everett prepared to play doctor by spending hours in a hospital. He also took 48 hours of color film showing doctors at work in operating rooms and he looks at this library frequently.

The actor has picked up so much medical knowledge that when his dog recently ripped his ear in a fight, the veterinarian asked Chad if he wanted to help sew the animal up. Everett declined, he said hastily.

Everett said the series will continue to feature contemporary themes, some of which would have been out of TV bounds a few seasons back—male impotence and artificial insemination. There also is one about a great surgeon in failing health with a "ghost surgeon" who steps in to handle the difficult, delicate parts of his operations.

Dear Abby: Straight From The Dog's Mouth

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I can't remember when I read anything more sickening than that letter about the woman whose poodle licked a 4-year-old child on the mouth. When the child's mother asked the poodle owner to please keep her dog away from the child, the poodle owner said her dog's mouth was cleaner than a human's, and she hoped her dog wouldn't catch anything from the child.

So help me some people are nuts. Please tell that dizzy dame who owned the poodle if she's so up tight about the dog, she should muzzle the baby.

NAUSEATED IN OMAHA
DEAR ABBY: That lady was right! A dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's. You have never seen a dog with rotten teeth and you never will. I would sooner give my dog a lick of my ice cream cone than you.

LOVES DOGS IN TULSA
DEAR ABBY: Are you on some kind of trip? Did you say a dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's? I am a faithful reader but I am...

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: It's true. The bacterial and other germ counts are lower in dogs' mouths than in humans'.

DEAR ABBY: All dog lover's have a screw loose. Listen to this. When my husband was in the service his sister invited me to stay with her because her husband was also away in the service. We were going to share one large double bed until I discovered she let her 60-pound Labrador sleep with her. I gave her a choice—the dog or me. She chose the dog. I never did stay with her and our relationship has been very cool ever since.

NO DOG LOVER IN BOSTON
DEAR ABBY: I suppose your readers thought you flipped your lid when you confirmed the statement a dog's mouth was cleaner than a human's. Well, I can confirm your statement and I speak from experience. I was playing handball, and in a scuffle I accidentally bit my tongue badly. I was hospitalized for several days, during which I was injected with every kind of serum known to man to prevent tetanus.

I always kept my mouth and teeth clean and was a nut on body hygiene. The doctor shocked me when he said, "We can't take any chances with a human bite. There are more germs in the mouth of a human than in the mouth of any animal." Sign me: PROTECTED AGAINST MYSELF

They were among the more than 100 teens and young adults attending the second session. The camping program is planned for youngsters, teenagers and adults with physical and neurological handicaps and a full schedule of activities includes swimming in the heated pool, boating on the Sandusky River, crafts, games and evening recreational activities. Camperships for this vacation outing were provided through donations made to the Pickaway and Putnam County Societies for Crippled Children.

Racial Discrimination Action Under Scrutiny By Pentagon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense and State departments are prodding American diplomats and military commanders overseas to move more aggressively against stubborn discrimination aimed at black U.S. servicemen.

A joint message by the two departments to all embassies, consular posts and U.S. commands puts the heat on by asking for reports on "what positive actions are being taken." Pointedly, the message says elimination of unequal treatment of black Americans in uniform is "a matter of serious concern" to President Nixon, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers. "The morale and welfare of our men

U.S. Ambassador Escapes Bomb Attempt In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Terrorists made an unsuccessful bid to kill the U.S. Ambassador to Cambodia, Emory C. Swank, by pushing a bomb-laden bicycle out of an alleyway as he sped past in his car on his way to work, embassy officials reported today.

Swank was unharmed and an embassy spokesman said the ambassador was not aware until several hours after the incident that an assassination attempt had been made. The riderless bicycle bumped gently against Swank's car as it rolled out into the roadway, the official said.

Holiday Highway Toll Hits 591

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic accidents across the nation claimed 591 lives during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

The National Safety Council had estimated in advance that 600 to 700 persons might die on streets and highways during the period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

The Labor Day weekend traffic death toll last year was 612. The holiday's highest toll since World War II was 688 in 1968.

Shortage Of School Buses Hampers Southern Systems

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A shortage of school buses created problems in several cities today as more schools throughout the South opened under court-ordered desegregation rulings.

With the buses the key tool in desegregation plans, the vehicles were put on double duty in such cities as Nashville, Tenn., Columbus, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla., with extra hours added to the school days of many pupils.

In Norfolk, Va., school openings were delayed further because a private bus company said it would not make enough vehicles available unless it received a rate increase, prohibited under President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

At Nashville, junior and senior high school pupils register under a busing plan which involves 700 routes transporting 49,000 of the approximately 96,000 pupils in the system.

Because the courts made no provision to wait for more buses, the 350 buses operated by the school system will do double duty to handle an additional 300 routes.

The result, school officials said, will be staggered openings. High schools generally will open at 7 a.m., junior high at 8 or 8:30 a.m. and elementary buildings between 8 and 10 a.m.

School officials at Columbus, said some pupils would have to board buses at 7 a.m. to allow classes to open as scheduled at 8:45.

The Columbus plan requires the busing of 12,000 to 14,000 pupils from an enrollment of 40,000.

A total of 72 buses will serve 231 routes, meaning that each vehicle will cover at least three routes.

The Duval County school board at Jacksonville mustered 348 buses to shuttle pupils to and from schools. The board is under court order to bus approximately 55,000 of the system's 123,000 pupils—an increase of about 15,000 over last year.

Duval is the only county in Florida which does not own any school buses. The school system helped its private contractors buy 99 used buses for this year's additions but superintendent of Schools Cecil Hardisty estimated that 150 more will have to be found in 1972.

Jackie Decides She'll Attend Dedication Rites

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has changed her mind and decided to fly to Washington to attend the opening of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, the Daily News reported today.

The newspaper said in a dispatch from Athens that the widow of the President had made the change at the urging of her husband, Greek shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis.

Mrs. Onassis, citing "personal and private reasons," said last week she would not accept President Nixon's offer to use the presidential box at the opening.

The Daily News said its information came from informed sources. Nancy Tuckerman, a press spokesman for Mrs. Onassis here, was not immediately available for comment.

Jethro Performs With Chet Atkins

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Jethro Burns, part of the music and comedy team of Homer and Jethro until the death of Henry D. "Homer" Haynes in August, says he will perform permanently with country-Western star Chet Atkins "because we've been friends for 20 years and he asked me to come along."

Burns said Atkins, who is his brother-in-law, "liked what I was doing and asked me to travel with him permanently." He said he joined Atkins several weeks ago. Burns and Atkins married twin sisters.

A joint message by the two departments to all embassies, consular posts and U.S. commands puts the heat on by asking for reports on "what positive actions are being taken." Pointedly, the message says elimination of unequal treatment of black Americans in uniform is "a matter of serious concern" to President Nixon, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers. "The morale and welfare of our men and women overseas is a priority matter." Discrimination in housing and public accommodations is of particular concern, the diplomats and top U.S. military leaders were told. Administration sources indicated Nixon wants closer cooperation between American diplomats and generals in attacking the problem, with commanders pressuring subordinates to act and ambassadors working on foreign governments to see to it that their nationals treat black GIs better.

German and other foreign landlords have been accused of denying housing to black U.S. servicemen and their families. Laird has discussed the problem with West German Defense Minister Helmut Schmidt and with Japanese authorities. Aides said he will raise the question again this fall during conferences with NATO leaders on a range of alliance issues.

Closer to home, Laird has placed enforcement of his many antidiscrimination directives high on the agenda for a meeting next week with the secretaries of Army, Air Force and Navy, the military chiefs of staff and other senior Defense officials. Meanwhile, Laird still is hunting for a new Pentagon civil rights chief to replace Frank Render, who resigned on demand nearly two weeks ago. A Defense spokesman said at the time that Laird felt there had not been enough action to end racial discrimination in the armed forces.

Pentagon sources said Laird will try to get a recommendation this week from Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Nathaniel Jones, the NAACP's general counsel, had been regarded as a leading possibility to replace Render but reportedly is not available for the job.

Puerto Rican Separatists Plan Anti-U.S. Bombings

By GEORGE ARFELD
Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Puerto Rico's leftist separatists are agitating for a massive anti-American demonstration to coincide with the opening of the national governors' conference in San Juan next Sunday. The activists are predicting a turnout of 15,000 at a rally and protest march and are counting on hundreds of journalists from the mainland to report back the demonstrators' allegations of colonialism and exploitation by the United States. "They will seek to have our police overreact," said one island leader. "They all remember what happened to Chicago's image during the Democratic convention" in 1968.

Rumors that 100 U.S.-owned businesses will be sabotaged during the four-day conference have shaken the business community and various business groups have held secret talks to work out precautions. All police and fire department leaves have been canceled during the conference.

Although independence seekers are believed to number less than 100,000 out of a total island population of 2.7 million, their militant zeal belies their small number. In the last election, separatists failed to poll 3 per cent of the vote, although some separatist groups boycott elections as a matter of policy.

A leaflet handed out by the organizers of the "National Day of Protest" on Sunday says: "There will be newsmen from around the world at the conference and they will carry our protest to all countries."

Authorities say there will be room for reasonable picketing, but they are bracing themselves for intense provocations. One U.S.-owned plant is closing all but two entrances to its sprawling premises and will allow only personnel with special identification cards to enter the building. Messengers, delivery men and others will have to remain outside.

One businessman said that "although rumors to the effect that 100 industries will be bombed sounds grotesque, we are doing all in our power to safeguard probable targets." Sporadically over the past months, terrorists belonging to outlawed "independents"—separatist—gangs have fire-bombed stores owned by Americans and Cubans or with American-sounding names.

Rehearsal At JFK Center Draws Cheers From Crowd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonard Bernstein, his gray hair ruffled and his face tense, leaned over the plush red velvet balcony of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts—totally concentrating on the first public performance of his composition, "Mass."

It was a dress rehearsal—before a sold-out audience of 2,200 in the new Opera House—and the energy and enthusiasm Bernstein generates were apparent.

With hands stretched tautly across the railing, he listened straining, smiling, grimacing, gesturing—never idle, never relaxed.

As "Mass" ended with a kiss of peace, which some in the audience picked up and spread to their neighbors, Bernstein seemed almost at prayer—his palms clasped together, fingers upward, almost touching his lips.

Bernstein will have to wait until Thursday morning to learn if the music critics think he's come up with a landmark in the music-drama-dance world to match his "West Side Story" and "On the Town." But the response of the audience was both immediate and exuberant.

For more than a quarter hour after the curtain, the crowd stood, stamped, clapped and yelled bravos.

On stage, Bernstein summoned the conductor, Maurice Peress, and Alvin Ailey, the choreographer.

Among the crowd—and besieged by autograph hunters before the curtain but little noticed afterwards in the groundswell for Bernstein—were Sen. and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy, brother of the slain president for whom the center is named.

"It was fitting . . . fitting," Kennedy said. "It surpasses all expectations."

It was the first audience in the completed Kennedy Center. The rehearsal came on the 13th year and fourth day after President Eisenhower signed legislation to match private donations with federal funds for a national cultural center.

Fair Skies Favor Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair weather favored most of the nation today, and temperatures ranged from cool in the Northwest to warm in the eastern half of the country. Rainfall was light and scattered over wide areas.

Overnight readings were in the 40s and 50s from the north and central Pacific coast inland across the upper Great Basin to western Montana. Winds up to 25 miles an hour and light rain add to the cooling trend.

Warm and humid conditions clung to the eastern part of the nation. Hot weather dominated the Southwest, with nighttime readings remaining in the 90s.

Rain fell from the lower Great Lakes to the Ohio Valley and along the south Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Thunderstorms were scattered over the mountain and plateau regions of the west.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 38 at Redmond, Ore., to 93 at Blythe, Calif.

A machine called the continuous caster can spew out a wide ribbon of red-hot metal weighing more than 1,200 tons in five hours.

Traffic Claims 27 Across Ohio During Holiday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents in the state over the long Labor Day weekend claimed 27 lives—11 fewer than safety experts had predicted, but still the second worst toll of the year.

Only the Memorial Day holiday weekend, when 34 died, claimed more lives. By comparison, 21 died over the Labor Day weekend last year.

Of those who died this past weekend, six were pedestrians. The worst day of the weekend was Saturday, when 11 died. By comparison, only three died Monday, the final day of the count.

Local NRTA To Discuss Insurance

JOHN J. KENNEDY

Insurance plans for older persons will be explained and evaluated by John J. Kennedy, insurance consultant for the National Retired Teachers Assn., AARP, at a meeting of the Pickaway County NRTA Sept. 18, at 1:30 p.m. at the L-K Restaurant south of Circleville on Route 23.

Area members of NRTA who are interested in insurance matters will be welcomed at the meeting. A question and answer period will provide opportunities for individual cases to be explored.

Retired educators interested in the local organization should contact Miss Mary L. Walters, 315 E. Main St., in Circleville, president of the local unit.

Membership in NRTA is open to men and women who have at some time been employed in the U. S. school systems or private education institutions at any level. With its sister association, the American Association of Retired Persons, NRTA represents the nation's largest group of older citizens dedicated to achieving lives of independence, dignity and purpose.

Brown Rips Gilligan's Plane Use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lt. Gov. John Brown has some definite ideas about Gov. John Gilligan's habit of using a state-owned plane for private trips to his Michigan vacation retreat.

Gilligan used the DC3 over the Labor Day Weekend, as he has done several times in the past.

"For the governor to fly at taxpayer expense to his private vacation cottage at the same time he is closing state parks to the public in the name of austerity reveals an arrogant disregard for the people of Ohio," Brown said.

The Republican lieutenant governor said Democrat Gilligan's weekend trip would cost the state some $1,300, "while his 10 per cent pay cut for the month of September amounts to only $333."

Brown concluded, "If he (Gilligan) throws the taxpayers' money around like a drunken sailor now, what will he do if he gets a state income tax?"

A spokesman for Gilligan said recently that private use of the state plane was one of the "prerequisites of being governor," and that its use was dictated by Gilligan's need to be readily able to communicate with his staff in case of emergency.

Named Captain

Senior tackle Ron Bryant, former Circleville High grid star and captain, was elected one of the University of Cincinnati's 1971 quad-captains by his teammates. A 6-2 and 206-pound letterman, Bryant will be a Bearcat starting defensive tackle for the second year in a row. He lettered as a linebacker in 1968 but missed the '69 season because of injuries.

Though not especially large for his position, Bryant uses tremendous desire and fine speed and quickness to achieve top results. Coaches regard him as one of the steadiest men on the squad.

Bryant's latest honor adds to his leadership laurels. He was a Circleville co-captain in 1966 with Tom Fletcher, a standout Cincy linebacker now assisting the coaching staff while finishing degree requirements.

Ron was elected a Cincinnati freshman team tri-captain in 1967.

The Bearcats open Sept. 11 against Dayton at Dayton.

One of their major contests this fall is a Sept. 25 tussle with potent Houston in Cincinnati at night.

White And Davis To Rejoin Bucks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two members of the Ohio State Buckeye squad sidelined with injuries last week got the go-ahead from Coach Woody Hayes this week to play in the season opener Saturday against Iowa.

Getting the nod were senior linebacker Stan White of Kent who suffered a pinched nerve muscle in his neck, and sophomore defensive halfback Jeff Davis of Erie, Pa., with a hip pointer.

Pro Grid Clubs Trim Rosters

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two kinds of cuts were felt in the pro football world Monday.

The first cut was surgical, and it was felt primarily by Sonny Jurgensen—on his left arm, just below the shoulder.

Dr. Don O'Donoghue, a nationally-known bone specialist who has treated numerous athletes, operated on the Washington Redskins' veteran quarterback in Oklahoma City Monday, along with the Redskins team physician, Dr. P. M. Palumbo, Jr.

The operation lasted an hour and a half, and Dr. Palumbo said it "went nicely with very good results."

The 37-year-old Jurgensen fractured the coracoid process—a small bone between his upper arm and shoulder—of his left arm, not his passing arm in a National Football League exhibition game against the Miami Dolphins Saturday.

A Washington spokesman said Jurgensen, the top-ranked quarterback in NFL history, would be out of action at least six weeks, meaning he will miss the final exhibition game and at least the first five regular season contests.

The other kind of cut was more widely felt. It was the kind administered by The Turk, the mythical creature who roams the world of pro football training camps and trims the rosters down to the size decreed by NFL league rules.

The Turk was busy Monday, since all NFL rosters must be down to 44 by 4 p.m. (EDT) today. Some of the teams placed men on waivers Monday, since that would give them a chance to recall the waivers or pick up players from other teams before the deadline.

The biggest cut was made by Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs, who placed 12 men on waivers. Included in this group were:

-Dennis Homan, wide receiver, a three-year veteran from Alabama acquired from the Dallas Cowboys in an off-season trade for Gloster Richardson.

-Willie Mitchell, defensive back, an eight-year man from Tennessee State who was a starter in 1965-68 and has been used on specialty teams since then.

-Mike Adamle, running back, a rookie from Northwestern who holds six Big Ten records and was a No. 5 draft pick.

-Chuck Hixson, quarterback, a rookie who was the NCAA passing champion at Southern Methodist in 1968 and finished second in the nation in 1969.

Elsewhere, the Cincinnati Bengals cut Tommy Smith, the Olympic 200-meter champion in 1968 who had been on the taxi squad for two years and was trying to make the club as a tight end. The Bengals also dropped Chip Bennett, a rookie linebacker, and Gene Trosch, a defensive tackle.

The New Orleans Saints cut rookie guard Larry DiNardo, a standout at Notre Dame, and picked up veteran offensive lineman Remi Prudhomme, cut earlier by Kansas City.

The Saints also dropped running backs Gene Moore and Don McCall. McCall, a fifth-year man from USC, had his best year in 1968 when he Coach Bill Vance and his Westfall Mustangs will be out to offset their lack of size by utilizing speed and experience on the gridiron this season.

The Mustangs will be small but 14 returning lettermen make the picture a little brighter for coach Vance and his staff.

Offensively the Scarlet and Gray will average 155 pounds across the forward wall with the backfield averaging around 140 pounds.

Quickness and determination will be required on defense as the Mustangs front five will average in the neighborhood of 165 pounds.

COACH Vance and assistant coaches Tom Hamman and Jim Vance are working hard and feel they will have the Scarlet and Gray ready to go when they travel to Berne Union for the season opener Sept. 10.

The offense will move out of a pro type offense utilizing a balanced attack. Versatility and the ability to execute will be the strong point of the Mustang backs. Good blocking up front will help to shake the backs loose into the opponents secondary.

"Our running game is beginning to shape up," coach Vance stated, "but our passing game has to come around if we're to reach our offensive potential."

"The defense is lagging behind and we are going to have to work hard to get it ready. The defensive ends look good but we still have a lot of spots to fill," Vance continued.

Westfall's offense moved the ball in the first two scrimmage games, scoring seven times in the opening fray and four more in the second encounter.

The Mustang defense did a fine job in the first scrimmage, limiting the opponents to one touchdown but gave up 12 tallies in the second game.

ACCORDING to Vance, Adena appears to be the team to beat in the Scioto Valley Conference with Paint Valley a strong contender.

Depth will be thin on the Mustang squad with 30 candidates out for the team. However, 14 returning lettermen should provide some needed experience.

It will be a young team with only five seniors eight juniors, 10 sophomores and seven freshmen.

"We are hard at it," Vance offered, "and feel we'll be ready when we go to Berne Union on the 10th of September."

Defensive positions are still up for grabs and everyone is in the picture.

At the present time, the fensive unit is two deep at most positions and should be able to move the ball.

BILL Blue and Randy Metzger will operate from the tight end position with Joe Jude and Eric Rickenbaugh working from the left tackle spot.

Artie Dick and Dana Brigner will handle the left guard post with Jimmy Akison and Randy Long over the ball.

Mike Martin and Jerry Smith will handle the duties of the split end.

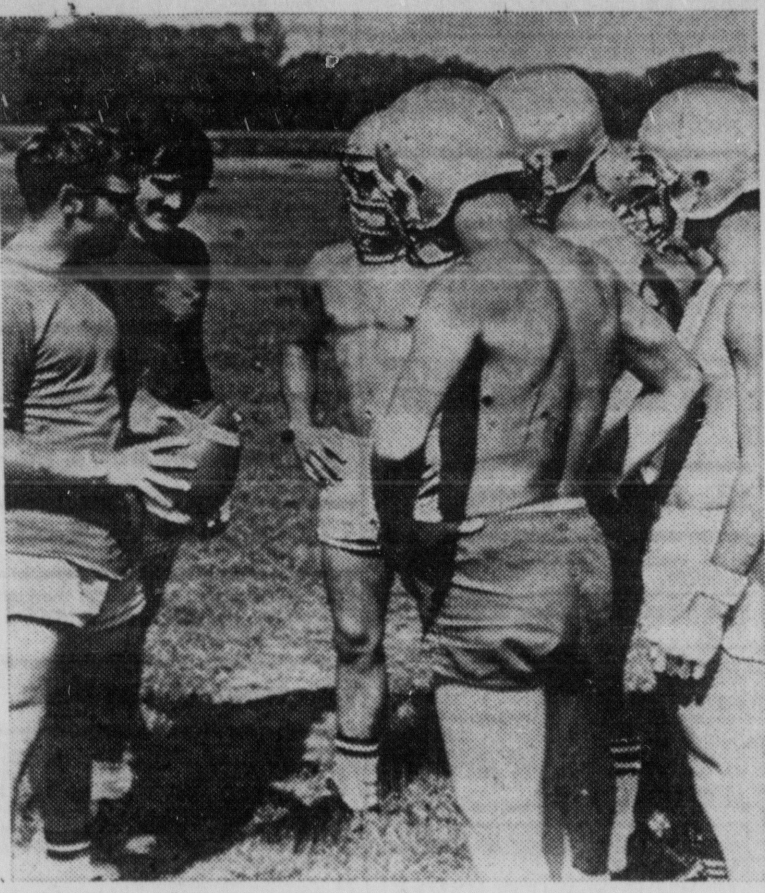

Dave Shannon and Larry Adams will give depth to the quarterback spot with Gary Underwood and Alan Underwood sharing the right halfback position.

Larry Adams and Larry Harris will work from the left half slot and Ted Musselman and Mike Malone will see action as the flanker.

Teays Valley Season Tickets On Sale

Teays Valley reserve seat season football tickets may be purchased at the Ashville Pharmacy or from coach Dick Kidwell at the high school.

Persons desiring to purchase tickets should do so at once as the supply is limited.

MOVE IT — Head coach Bill Vance and assistant coach Tom Hamman talk to members of the offensive unit of the Westfall football squad. The Scarlet and Gray have moved the ball quite well in scrimmage games and the coaches hope the momentum carries over into the season.

Bengals Face Washington In Final Pre-Season Tilt

CINCINNATI (AP) — Even though the Cincinnati Bengals are undefeated in five pre-season National Football League games, coach Paul Brown does not lend any special significance to their perfect record.

"I want to win, I always want to win," said Brown. "But I attach no particular importance to our undefeated status. We've been winning some close games that could easily have gone the other way. We will not make

Gary Cowan Wins U.S. Golf Title

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — "How far was it?" Gary Cowan was asked.

"About a mile," he replied, breaking into a big grin.

Cowan had a right to smile. The 32-year-old Canadian stroked a 135-yard nine-iron shot into the final hole for an eagle two that gave him the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship Saturday.

Cowan led by one stroke over Eddie Pearce, 19-year-old Wake Forest sophomore, with the last hole to play. Pearce, of Temple Terrace, Fla., had finished the four-day, 72-hole grind at one-under-par 283. He stood at the 18th hole watching Cowan play.

Cowan's drive went into the right rough, the ball running through a sandtrap and landing a yard short of forcing the Kitchener, Ont., insurance broker to chip into the fairway.

Cowan took out a nine iron and hit the ball cleanly. Cowan watched the ball sail over a hill and hit the front of the huge 18th green at the Wilmington Country Club.

"I thought it was going too fast and I said to myself, 'Don't go over the green.' Then people started oohing and aahing and I thought it wasn't even to the pin yet."

Circleville Grid Tickets On Sale

Circleville High School general admission and student tickets will go on sale Wednesday afternoon at Bingman's Drugs and Risch's Drugs.

Student tickets will also be available at all Circleville schools.

A few season reserve seat tickets are still available at the high school, 474-7478.

The stadium ticket office will open 6:30 p.m. on the day of the game.

Chicago Bears Still Seek Quarterback, Good Running

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears this season move away from their traditional Wrigley Field home base, but it's conjectural whether they can move away from old problems, such as lack of running strength and a clear-cut No. 1 quarterback.

The Bears, who finished tied for third—actually tied for last—in the National Football Conference's Central Division last season—this fall will operate in refurbished Soldier Field on Chicago's Lake Front.

A big plus can develop for the Bears if quarterback Jack Concannon and wide receiver Dick Gordon take up where they

Last season, towering southpaw Bobby Douglass led off as Coach Jim Dooley's No. 1 quarterback, but it wasn't until Concannon started hitting Gordon consistently that the Bears began putting an offense together.

The result was three victories in the final three games and two defeats by a total margin of only four points—16-13 to the Minnesota Vikings and 21-20 to the Baltimore Colts—plus the NFC receiving title going to Gordon on 71 catches for 1,026 yards.

However, the way it is with the Bears running game is so questionable that Jim Grabowski, cut loose this fall by the Green Bay Packers, and Don Shy, a free agent refugee last season from the New Orleans Saints, might be heavy duty performers.

Not only does erstwhile superstar Gale Sayers have yet to prove he has recovered from a second knee operation, making three in all on both knees, but his expected hotshot rookie replacement, Joe Moore, might miss the first month of the season with torn ankle ligaments.

Moore, and 235-pound fullback Jim Harrison, the Bears, Nos. 1 and 2 draft picks, both from Missouri, thus far have failed to produce the offensive adrenalin much needed to bolster 1970's mild ground attack.

Craig Baynham is the only other holdover from last season's ball-carrying corps. Ronnie Bull and Mike Hull were traded to Philadelphia and Washington and Ross Montgomery has retired.

The Bears' other superstar, linebacker Dick Butkus, has recovered much better than Sayers from winter knee surgery, and should again be one of the NFC's top defensive terrors.

Tackle Bill Staley also is recovering from knee surgery and is much needed in a front defensive line also including Ed O'Bradovich, Willie Holman, George Seals, Harry Gunner and Dave Hale.

It looks like a busy fall for the Bear linebacking corps of Butkus, flanked by Doug Buffone, LeRoy Caffey and Ross Brubacher. If the secondary doesn't improve considerably over last season.

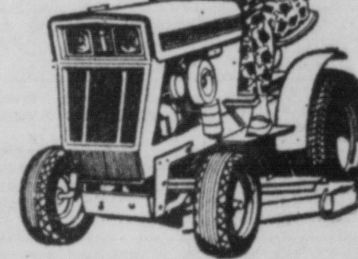

Cornerback Joe Taylor may be the only holdover in the secondary and he shifts to the left side vacated by apparent retirement of Bennie McRae. Another ex-Green Bay star, Bob Jeter, is tabbed to play right corner back. At the two safety spots, promising rookie Jerry Moore of Arkansas has moved ahead of holdover Dick Daniels and Ron Smith may replace Phil Clark.

Injury forced retirement of guard Howard Mudd and the Bears on Sept. 2 acquired tackle Steve Wright from the Redskins to bolster an offensive line which needs more consistency.

Dooley, starting his fourth season at the Bear helm, obviously has to talk about 1971 with one eye on the medical chart.

Pro Grid Clubs Trim Rosters

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two kinds of cuts were felt in the pro football world Monday.

The first cut was surgical,

and it was felt primarily by

arm, just below the shoulder.

Dr. Don O'Donoghue, a nationally-known bone specialist who has treated numerous athletes, operated on the Washington Redskins' veteran quarterback in Oklahoma City Monday, along with the Redskins team physician, Dr. P. M. Palumbo, Jr.

The operation lasted an hour and a half, and Dr. Palumbo said it "went nicely with very good results."

The 37-year-old Jurgensen

fractured the coracoid process—a small bone between his upper arm and shoulder—of his left arm, not his passing arm in a National Football League exhibition game against the Miami Dolphins Saturday.

A Washington spokesman said Jurgensen, the top-ranking quarterback in NFL history, would be out of action at least six weeks, meaning he will miss the final exhibition game and at least the first five regular season contests.

The other kind of cut was more widely felt. It was the kind administered by The Turk,

the mythical creature who roams the world of pro football training camps and trims the rosters down to the size decreed by NFL league rules.

The Turk was busy Monday,

since all NFL rosters must be down to 44 by 4 p.m. (EDT) today. Some of the teams placed men on waivers Monday, since that would give them a chance to recall the waivers or pick up players from other teams before the deadline.

The biggest cut was made by

Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs, who placed 12 men on waivers. Included in this group were:

-Dennis Homan, wide receiver,

a three-year veteran from

Alabama acquired from the Dallas Cowboys in an off-season trade for Gloster Richardson.

-Willie Mitchell, defensive back, an eight-year man from Tennessee State who was a starter in 1965-68 and has been used on specialty teams since then.

-Mike Adamle, running back,

a rookie from Northwestern

who holds six Big Ten records and was a No. 5 draft pick.

-Chuck Hixson, quarterback,

a rookie who was the NCAA passing champion at Southern Methodist in 1968 and finished second in the nation in 1969.

Elsewhere, the Cincinnati

Bengals cut Tommy Smith, the Olympic 200-meter champion in 1968 who had been on the taxi squad for two years and was trying to make the club as a tight end. The Bengals also dropped Chip Bennett, a rookie linebacker, and Gene Trosch,

a defensive tackle.

The New Orleans Saints cut

rookie guard Larry DiNardo,

a standout at Notre Dame, and picked up veteran offensive lineman Remi Prudhomme, cut earlier by Kansas City.

The Saints also dropped running backs Gene Moore and

Don McCall. McCall, a fifth-year man from USC, had his

Bengals Face Washington In Final Pre-Season Tilt

CINCINNATI (AP) — Even though the Cincinnati Bengals are undefeated in five pre-season National Football League games, coach Paul Brown does not lend any special significance to their perfect record.

"I want to win, I always want to win," said Brown. "But I attach no particular importance to our undefeated status. We've been winning some close games that could easily have gone the other way. We will not make any extra effort to beat Washington just to finish a perfect pre-season."

The Bengals meet the Washington Redskins at Washington Saturday night in their final exhibition contest before they open the regular season here Sept. 19 against the Philadelphia Eagles.

Brown said the Redskins' loss of veteran quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, who suffered a broken shoulder against the Miami Dolphins Saturday night and is expected to be out six to eight weeks, "certainly is going to hurt them."

"Washington really has some defensive line," said Brown. "George Allen has cornered almost an entire veteran team. It's almost completely made over."

The Redskins beat the Bengals 27-12, in a pre-season clash last year, then beat them again, 20-0, in a regular season game.

The Bengals have beaten the Miami Dolphins, Detroit Lions, Pittsburgh Steelers, St. Louis Cardinals and Green Bay Packers in exhibition play and are the only team besides the Dallas Cowboys with a 5-0 mark.

Meanwhile, the Bengals trimmed their roster to 44 Monday by waiving former Olympic sprint champion Tommy Smith, Chip Bennett and Gene Grosch and also announced Thurman Couch was given his outright release.

Smith, the 200-meter champion in the 1968 Olympics, was a receiver and was on the Bengal's taxi squad for two years. Bennett is a 6-3, 236-pound line-backer from Abilene Christian, and Trosch was a 6-7 270-pound tackle picked up from the New Orleans Saints. The Bengals had picked up Couch, a line-backer, from the San Francisco 49ers last week.

Protests Mark Gilligan Closure Of State Parks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All but 11 of Ohio's 57 state parks closed their gates Monday night as part of Gov. John Gilligan's austerity program.

There were at least two protests against the closings during the Labor Day Weekend, but a spokesman for the Ohio Department of Natural Resources said all campers at the parks involved were expected to be off the premises by 9 p.m. Monday.

At Mohican State Forest, in Ashland County, a group of about 150 campers picketed with signs protesting the closing at the park's main entrance during the morning. Park Manager John Boggess met with them and answered some of their questions, the Natural Resources spokesman said.

At Stonelick State Park in Clermont County, a group of campers burned an effigy of the governor at the campsite, protesting the austerity program.

Swimming was off limits to park visitors all weekend at Lake Acton beach in Hueston Woods State Park.

Lifeguards at the Preble County beach quit last Thursday after receiving layoff notices, contending they had the remaining four days due as overtime.

At many of the 46 parks, however, employees who officially lost their jobs Monday night were planning to report to work on a voluntary basis Tuesday to help clean up the litter and refuse left by Labor Day weekend park visitors.

"A number of people all around are volunteering to work on various parks," the Natural Resources spokesman said. "They're taking a bit of a risk in that they're not covered by workmen's compensation, but they've been advised of the risk."

"We're grateful for what they're doing."

Irish Violence Claims 100th Victim As Talks Resume

LONDON (AP) — Prime Ministers Edward Heath of Britain and Jack Lynch of Ireland are meeting again today to try to defuse the violence in Northern Ireland that claimed its 100th victim while they talked Monday.

Political sources noted some signs of progress after the two statesmen conferred for nine hours Monday at Chequers, Heath's country residence outside London, although officials were not optimistic that dramatic solutions would emerge from the conversations.

Lynch told newsmen: "Of course, there is no question of agreement at this stage. We are discussing things. But Mr. Heath and I now know each other's minds better. We have been talking frankly and well."

The first session was described by officials as "relaxed, friendly and business-like."

As the two leaders adjourned their talks for the night, word came that Northern Ireland's two-year death toll climbed to 100 with the shooting of 14-year-old Annette McGavigan in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside quarter.

Annette was licking a lollipop and talking with friends as they sat on a garden wall when a gun battle blazed between British troops and hidden gunmen. Annette was struck in the head by a bullet. She was given last rites by a Catholic priest as her friends waited in terror.

The British army said its troops shot back only at individual snipers and no one else was in the line of fire during the exchange. But a spokesman did not discount the possibility that a ricocheting military bullet may have hit the girl.

After the shooting, crowds gathered and hurled petrol bombs and stones at troops. One soldier was wounded but the district later was reported quiet.

3 Considered For Military Appeals Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three months after civil-rights leaders fought a conservative South Carolinian's nomination to the nation's highest military court, two Ohio blacks and a white Maryland law professor reportedly are being considered for the post.

The three-judge U.S. Court of Military Appeals has been without its third permanent member since last May when former Michigan Sen. Homer Ferguson's 15-year term ended.

Ferguson will continue as an acting judge on the all-civilian court until President Nixon nominates and the Senate confirms his successor.

Apparently hoping to avoid the behind-the-scenes Senate battle that erupted over the post late in May, the Nixon administration is said to be considering three men more acceptable to civil-rights leaders.

Former Rep. Albert W. Watson, R-S.C., was President Nixon's original choice for the job, according to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and administration sources. But several senators spoke out against Watson's alleged segregationist views and the nomination was never submitted.

Whoever gets the $42,500-a-year job probably will find among his first acts will be considering Lt. William Calley's appeal of his My Lai massacre conviction.

The three Republicans named by congressional sources as under consideration by Nixon and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird are:

—Robert Duncan, 44, a justice on the Ohio State Supreme Court. Duncan, a black, was appointed to that court in 1968 and won election to a six-year term in 1970. He earlier served as chief counsel to Ohio Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, now a Republican senator.

—John W. Kellogg, 51, an 18-year veteran of the Cleveland City Council, and also black. He is vice chairman of the Cuyahoga County Republican Central Committee.

—Edward A. Potts, 46, of Camp Springs, Md. Potts is associate dean of the George Washington University Law School in Washington, D.C.

Seven Injured In Pickaway County Highway Mishaps

Eleven traffic accidents, including four injury mishaps in which seven people were injured, were investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department over the Labor Day weekend.

Robert Patrick Barton, 22, Route 1, suffered abrasions of the hands and knees when his motorcycle upset 4:25 p.m. Saturday on Route 361 just south of Boggs Road. He was treated at Berger Hospital.

Barton told Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson he swerved to avoid a dog on the road and the cycle turned over.

David R. Gillespie, 19, Route 3, received cuts of the arm and nose in a one-car mishap 3:10 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of Welch Road and Route 762 in Scioto Township.

A PASSENGER in the car, Patty Fife, 19, Williamsport, suffered a cut forehead and bruises of the neck and shoulder in the accident. Both were taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, for treatment.

According to the report of Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson, Gillespie was southbound on Welch Road and skidded through the intersection, striking a utility pole.

A two-car mishap 3:45 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of the Circleville - Kingston Pike and the Circleville - Tarlton Road resulted in injury to two Circleville residents.

Kermit S. Haddox, 25, 324 Barnes Ave., suffered a neck injury and Robbin Haddox, 2, 324 Barnes Ave., an injured nose when the Haddox auto was struck by a car driven by Holly E. Spencer, 16, Laurelville. Both injured parties were treated at Berger Hospital.

Deputy Don Thompson's report states the Spencer auto had stopped for the traffic sign at the Circleville - Kingston Pike and then pulled out, hitting the Haddox vehicle which was northbound on the Kingston Pike.

Richard E. Morehart, 19, Ashville, received a cut back and a passenger, Charles Forson, 19, Ashville, a cut eye in a one-car accident 7 p.m. Monday on the Circleville - Winchester Road in Madison Township. Both were taken to Mercy Hospital, Columbus, for treatment.

Morehart told Deputy Don Thompson he lost control of the car in a curve and hit the guardrail.

Investigators Probe Jet Wreckage Where 111 Died

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Smashed to bits on a rain-soaked, wind-beaten mountain side, the jet airliner is left in pieces small enough to hold in your hand.

"We've got a lot of rain, low clouds and wind, and those people on the hill are taking a beating," an official said of rescuers who will continue today to remove the bodies of 111 victims from the mountain.

"We've got that airplane scattered up and down a hillside for about 1,500 feet," added the official, Patrick Wellington, deputy commissioner of the Alaska Public Safety Department.

By late Monday rescuers had recovered 56 bodies and the flight recorders from the scene where the Alaska Airlines 727 jet crashed Saturday in the nation's worst single-aircraft disaster.

The bodies and debris were scattered throughout three parallel depressions 2,500 feet up 3,500-foot Mt. Chilkat.

The bodies were labeled with marking pencils for identification and airlifted by helicopter to Juneau, where a temporary morgue has been set up in a National Guard armory.

Recovery workers moved through fist-sized chunks of metal, paper and clothing searching for the remains of victims Monday as three private helicopters and one Coast Guard craft moved over the area, ferrying supplies to the rescue party.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators began charting the location of every piece of debris in an attempt to determine the chain of events before and during the crash.

The two recorders found Monday were to be flown to Seattle today. The voice recorder will be read there. The flight recorder will be forwarded to a laboratory in Washington, D.C.

Officials still could give no indication as to what caused the crash.

The airliner was en route from Yakutu and was on its final approach to Juneau Municipal Airport when it hit the ridge about 1,000 feet below the top of the mountain.

Federal Aviation Administration regulations require incoming planes to maintain at least a 6,500-foot altitude at that point.

Norway's King Skippers Yacht County School Enrollment Is 6,002

A total of 6,002 students are enrolled in Pickaway County schools today, according to an official tally made today by Superintendent Edward Martin.

The figure reported today is two students over the total estimated midweek last week by Martin when problems in the Logan Elm District and new scheduling in the Teays Valley District prevented a total enrollment from being made.

Teays Valley, the largest of the three county districts, had enrollment as follows: high school, 759; junior high, 491; Walnut, 518; Ashville, 555; Scioto, 365.

Logan Elm High School had 418 students enrolled today; the George McDowell Exchange School had 365; Washington, 251; Saltcreek, 228 and Pickaway, 267.

At Westfall, 512 were registered at the high school; 149 at junior high; 346 at Monroe; 418 at Jackson and 396 at Darby.

The total is approximately 200 more than were enrolled in the county schools last year. The figures are not absolute, Martin noted. He expects to increase enrollment within the next week or ten days before registration finally settles.

Nixon, Economic Advisers Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said today President Nixon will address a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p.m. EDT, Thursday.

They said they were not sure what the President will speak about but presumed his topic would be the economic situation.

Following the President's address, the House and Senate will remain in the House chamber for a reception for the three Apollo 15 astronauts.

The congressional leaders made their report while Nixon met with top advisers on international economic policy. A high-level Japanese delegation is due in town later in the week to discuss trade problems.

No agenda was announced for the meeting, but there was speculation the discussions would center on the upcoming talks.

Among those scheduled to attend today's meeting were Treasury Secretary John B. Connally; Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird; Director George Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget; Chairman Paul McCracken of the President's Council of Economic Advisers; Ambassador Carl J. Gilbert, Nixon's special trade representative; and Ambassador-at-Large David M. Kennedy, former secretary of the Treasury.

Connally and Rogers will be the leading U.S. participants in discussions Thursday and Friday marking the annual U.S.-

McGovern, Humphrey Eye Economy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In separate Labor Day speeches in Ohio, Sens. George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey called for a federal wage-price stabilization board to begin functioning when President Nixon's 90-day freeze comes to an end Nov. 13.

McGovern, who has declared his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, included the proposal in a three-step economic program he outlined at a United Auto Workers gathering at Chippewa Lake, south of Medina.

Humphrey's proposal was part of a new "fair deal" he described at a United Rubber Workers meeting in Barborton.

The Minnesota senator's "fair deal" would include measures for producing new jobs, consumer relief and delay of Social Security payment increases.

He criticized Nixon's economic plan as being based on "the old conservative theory of trickle-down—the theory that if business and management are given windfalls, then prosperity will eventually reach the working man and the consumer."

What is needed, Humphrey said, "is not trickle-down, but percolate up."

In addition to a stabilization board, McGovern called for an excess profits tax and an immediate end to American involvement in fighting in Southeast Asia, which he labeled "the root of everything that is wrong with our economy."

The South Dakota senator said money to combat social and environmental ills could come from cutbacks in defense spending and an end to "unfair tax loopholes that rob the treasury of billions of dollars each year."

McGovern also proposed a ceiling of six per cent on loan interest rates and tax reductions for moderate-income families.

Japanese meeting of cabinet ministers on trade and economic affairs.

The Japanese ministers are expected to push for repeal of restrictions on the sale of Japanese products in the United States, including a 10-per-cent surtax on imports imposed Aug. 15 by President Nixon as part of a sweeping new policy designed to curb inflation and protect the dollar.

In his Labor Day message Monday, broadcast nationwide on radio, Nixon praised the American competitive spirit and urged work toward "a goal we have rarely been able to achieve in the past 40 years—new prosperity without war and without inflation."

Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the Senate House Economic Committee, suggested over the weekend that the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze announced by President Nixon be followed by wage-price controls based on productivity.

The Wisconsin Democrat proposed creation of a board made up of representatives from organized labor, business and government that would determine productivity rates of major industries and require that wage and price increases be

LONDON (AP) — Prime Ministers Edward Heath of Britain and Jack Lynch of Ireland are meeting again today to try to defuse the violence in Northern Ireland that claimed its 100th victim while they talked Monday.

Political sources noted some signs of progress after the two statesmen conferred for nine hours Monday at Chequers, Heath's country residence outside London, although officials were not optimistic that dramatic solutions would emerge from the conversations.

Lynch told newsmen: "Of course, there is no question of agreement at this stage. We are discussing things. But Mr. Heath and I now know each other's minds better. We have been talking frankly and well."

The first session was described by officials as "relaxed, friendly and businesslike."

As the two leaders adjourned their talks for the night, word came that Northern Ireland's two-year death toll climbed to 100 with the shooting of 14-year-old Annette McGavigan in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside quarter.

Annette was licking a lollipop and talking with friends as they sat on a garden wall when a gun battle blazed between British troops and hidden gunmen. Annette was struck in the head by a bullet. She was given last rites by a Catholic priest as her friends waited in terror.

The British army said its troops shot back only at individual snipers and no one else was in the line of fire during the exchange. But a spokesman did not discount the possibility that a ricocheting military bullet may have hit the girl.

After the shooting, crowds gathered and hurled petrol bombs and stones at troops. One soldier was wounded but the district later was reported quiet.

The three-judge U.S. Court of Military Appeals has been without its third permanent member since last May when former Michigan Sen. Homer Ferguson's 15-year term ended.

Ferguson will continue as an acting judge on the all-civilian court until President Nixon nominates and the Senate confirms his successor.

Apparently hoping to avoid the behind-the-scenes Senate battle that erupted over the post late in May, the Nixon administration is said to be considering three men more acceptable to civil-rights leaders.

Former Rep. Albert W. Watson, R-S.C., was President Nixon's original choice for the job, according to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and administration sources. But several senators spoke out against Watson's alleged segregationist views and the nomination was never submitted.

Whoever gets the $42,500-a-year job probably will find among his first acts will be considering Lt. William Calley's appeal of his My Lai massacre conviction.

The three Republicans named by congressional sources as under consideration by Nixon and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird are:

—Robert Duncan, 44, a justice on the Ohio State Supreme Court. Duncan, a black, was appointed to that court in 1968 and won election to a six-year term in 1970. He earlier served as chief counsel to Ohio Atty. Gen. William Saxbe, now a Republican senator.

—John W. Kellogg, 51, an 18-year veteran of the Cleveland City Council, and also black. He is vice chairman of the Cuyahoga County Republican Central Committee.

—Edward A. Potts, 46, of Camp Springs, Md. Potts is associate dean of the George Washington University Law School in Washington, D.C.

Seven Injured In Pickaway County Highway Mishaps

Eleven traffic accidents, including four injury mishaps in which seven people were injured, were investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department over the Labor Day weekend.

Robert Patrick Barton, 22, Route 1, suffered abrasions of the hands and knees when his motorcycle upset 4:25 p.m. Saturday on Route 361 just south of Boggs Road. He was treated at Berger Hospital.

Barton told Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson he swerved to avoid a dog on the road and the cycle turned over.

David R. Gillespie, 19, Route 3, received cuts of the arm and nose in a one-car mishap 3:10 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of Welch Road and Route 762 in Scioto Township.

A PASSENGER in the car, Patty Fife, 19, Williamsport, suffered a cut forehead and bruises of the neck and shoulder in the accident. Both were taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, for treatment.

According to the report of Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson, Gillespie was southbound on Welch Road and skidded through the intersection, striking a utility pole. A two-car mishap 3:45 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of the Circleville - Kingston Pike and the Circleville - Tarlton Road resulted in injury to two Circleville residents.

Kermit S. Haddox, 25, 324 Barnes Ave., suffered a neck injury and Robbin Haddox, 2, 324 Barnes Ave., an injured nose when the Haddox auto was struck by a car driven by Holly E. Spencer, 16, Laurelville. Both injured parties were treated at Berger Hospital.

Deputy Don Thompson's report states the Spencer auto had stopped for the traffic sign at the Circleville - Kingston Pike and then pulled out, hitting the Haddox vehicle which was northbound on the Kingston Pike.

Richard E. Morehart, 19, Ashville, received a cut back and a passenger, Charles Forson, 19, Ashville, a cut eye in a one-car accident 7 p.m. Monday on the Circleville - Winchester Road in Madison Township. Both were taken to Mercy Hospital, Columbus, for treatment.

Morehart told Deputy Don Thompson he lost control of the car in a curve and hit the guardrail.

Investigators Probe Jet Wreckage Where 111 Died

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Smashed to bits on a rain-soaked, wind-beaten mountainside, the jet airliner is left in pieces small enough to hold in your hand.

"We've got a lot of rain, low clouds and wind, and those people on the hill are taking a beating," an official said of rescuers who will continue today to remove the bodies of 111 victims from the mountain.

"We've got that airplane scattered up and down a hillside for about 1,500 feet," added the official, Patrick Wellington, deputy commissioner of the Alaska Public Safety Department.

By late Monday rescuers had recovered 56 bodies and the flight recorders from the scene where the Alaska Airlines 727 jet crashed Saturday in the nation's worst single-aircraft disaster.

The bodies and debris were scattered throughout three parallel depressions 2,500 feet up 3,500-foot Mt. Chilkat.

The bodies were labeled with marking pencils for identification and airlifted by helicopter to Juneau, where a temporary morgue has been set up in a National Guard armory.

Recovery workers moved through fist-sized chunks of metal, paper and clothing searching for the remains of victims Monday as three private helicopters and one Coast Guard craft moved over the area, ferrying supplies to the rescue party.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators began charting the location of every piece of debris in an attempt to determine the chain of events before and during the crash.

The two recorders found Monday were to be flown to Seattle today. The voice recorder will be read there. The flight recorder will be forwarded to a laboratory in Washington, D.C.

Officials still could give no indication as to what caused the crash.

The airliner was en route from Yakutat and was on its final approach to Juneau Municipal Airport when it hit the ridge about 1,000 feet below the top of the mountain.

Federal Aviation Administration regulations require incoming planes to maintain at least a 6,500-foot altitude at that point.

County School Enrollment Is 6,002

A total of 6,002 students are enrolled in Pickaway County schools today, according to an official tally made today by Superintendent Edward Martin.

The figure reported today is two students over the total estimated midweek last week by Martin when problems in the Logan Elm District and new scheduling in the Teays Valley District prevented a total enrollment from being made.

Teays Valley, the largest of the three county districts, had enrollment as follows: high school, 759; junior high, 491; Walnut, 518; Ashville, 555; Scioto, 365.

Logan Elm High School had 418 students enrolled today; the George McDowell Exchange School had 365; Washington, 251; Saltcreek, 228 and Pickaway, 267.

At Westfall, 512 were registered at the high school; 149 at junior high; 346 at Monroe; 418 at Jackson and 395 at Darby.

The total is approximately 200 more than were enrolled in the county schools last year. The figures are not absolute, Martin noted. He expects to increase enrollment within the next week or ten days before registration finally settles.

Nixon, Economic Advisers Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said today President Nixon will address a joint session of Congress at 12:30 p.m. EDT, Thursday.

They said they were not sure what the President will speak about but presumed his topic would be the economic situation.

Following the President's address, the House and Senate will remain in the House chamber for a reception for the three Apollo 15 astronauts.

The congressional leaders made their report while Nixon met with top advisers on international economic policy. A high-level Japanese delegation is due in town later in the week to discuss trade problems.

No agenda was announced for the meeting, but there was speculation the discussions would center on the upcoming talks.

Among those scheduled to attend today's meeting were Treasury Secretary John B. Connally; Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird; Director George Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget; Chairman Paul McCracken of the President's Council of Economic Advisers; Ambassador Carl J. Gilbert, Nixon's special trade representative; and Ambassador-at-Large David M. Kennedy, former secretary of the Treasury.

Connally and Rogers will be the leading U.S. participants in discussions Thursday and Friday marking the annual U.S.-

Japanese meeting of cabinet ministers on trade and economic affairs.

The Japanese ministers are expected to push for repeal of restrictions on the sale of Japanese products in the United States, including a 10-percent surtax on imports imposed Aug. 15 by President Nixon as part of a sweeping new policy designed to curb inflation and protect the dollar.

In his Labor Day message Monday, broadcast nationwide on radio, Nixon praised the American competitive spirit and urged work toward "a goal we have rarely been able to achieve in the past 40 years—new prosperity without war and without inflation."

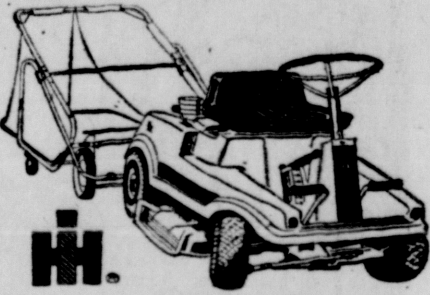

Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, suggested over the weekend that the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze announced by President Nixon be followed by wage-price controls based on productivity.

The Wisconsin Democrat proposed creation of a board made up of representatives from organized labor, business and government that would determine productivity rates of major industries and require that wage and price increases be based on those figures.

In another development, AFL-CIO President George Meany said he would agree to a no-strike pledge if labor is given a voice in deciding what follows the wage-price freeze.

Norway's King Skippers Yacht

NEW YORK (AP) — King Olav V of Norway has flown here to skipper a chartered American yacht in the International World Championships and the Scandinavian Gold Cup.

The races are sponsored by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club of Oyster Bay and will take place in Long Island Sound between Sept. 8 and Sept. 20.

The king, 68, has competed in more than 1,000 races during the past 40 years.

Lawrence Welk Parade Marshal

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Lawrence Welk, who has been leading his "champagne music" band on nationwide television for more than 15 years, will lead the 83rd annual Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day.

After being named grand marshal Monday, the 68-year-old bandleader said it was "one of the finest things that has ever happened to me."
